3 Arrested as Nazi Spies at Detroit

TWO GERMAN ALIENS ALSO HELD BY FBI

Detroiters Are Charged With Gathering Data on Midwest Plants.

1 MAN, 4 WOMEN SEIZED

Hoover Reports One of Spies Cooperated With FBI In Obtaining Information.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The justice department announced today the arrest in Detroit of two women and a man on charges of espionage for gathering information for Nazi Germany.

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation said the arrests climaxed an investigation begun in 1939.

Hoover also announced the arrest on presidential warrants of two German aliens in Detroit.

The German aliens were not named, but Hoover said both were women and that they will be held for a hearing before the alien enemy hearing board in Detroit.

The justice department said those arrested on espionage charges are Grace Buchanan-Dineen, 34; Mrs. Theresa Behrens, 44; and Dr. Fred William Thomas, 44, a surgeon and physician.

All three have Detroit addresses. The complaints filed before U. S. Commissioner J. Stanley Hurd in Detroit charge that:

Theresa Behrens secured information as to the location of the manufacturing plants of the Pullman company of Chicago, the number of employes engaged by the company in manufacturing war material, the kind of material then being manufactured by the

Hout, Richland Commissioner, In Serious Condition

Ray Hout, Richland county commissioner, was in a critical condition at General hospital today following a hernia operation last Thursday.

He was given a blood transfusion today after his condition took a sudden turn for the worse yesterday. Five fellow workers in the courthouse submitted to a good type test for the transfusion. Entering the hospital Wednesday evening, Hout underwent the operation Thursday. Courthouse workers reported he had telephoned them on Friday and seemed to be in good health.

Hout's physician described his condition as "very serious" today. Hout is at present being kept under an oxygen tent.

PICK UNION

Workers At Crestline Plant Vote For Organization.

CLEVELAND — (AP) — The National Labor Relations board's regional office announced today production and maintenance workers at the Burch Corporation, Crestline, O., would be represented by the International Association of Machinists, after a consent election yesterday resulting in 77 votes for the unaffiliated union and 33 for no union.

200 Richland Dads Facing Draft Calls

Boards Make Prediction As Hersney Cites Need for 446,000.

Richland county's three draft boards may certify as many as 200 fathers for induction into military service by Dec. 31, draft board officials predicted today.

This figure is based on a population break-down of a statement released by Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, national selective service director today that 446,000 fathers in the nation will be called for military service by the end of December to meet anticipated manpower need of 907,000 men.

Local draft board officials said they did not know what their October quotas would be and therefore could make no good estimate of the number of county fathers to be taken in October. According to present plans of national selective service headquarters the drafting of fathers will begin Oct. 1.

At the present time, local draft board officials said they are preparing a statistical survey of Richland county's available manpower to be sent to Washington at the end of this month along with similar survey from draft boards all over the country. From

Reports Indicate Two-Thirds of Jap Fleet Destroyed.

NEW YORK—(AP)—The Japanese fleet, on the basis of United Nations communiques since Pearl Harbor, has lost 147 cruisers and destroyers—just 45 short of the total credited to it as built or building in a report to the senate naval affairs committee at the outset of the war.

Two days after the Pearl Harbor attack, Chairman Walsh (D-Mass) said that figures obtained by the senate committee showed Japan had 46 cruisers built and 10 building and 125 destroyers built and 11 building.

United Nations communiques since Dec. 7, 1941, have claimed destruction of 45 Japanese cruisers, 92 destroyers and 10 other naval vessels listed as being in either of the two categories.

Turns From Pacific Battles to Pitching Hay on Richland Farm

Marine 'Resting' After 40 Months In War Zones.

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

A veteran of 12 years in the U. S. Marine corps the past 40 months in the Pacific area, he was recently ordered home for a rest.

He went through the Nicaraguan campaign. He helped to fight off the Japs that bright Sunday morning at Pearl Harbor. He was among the first Marines to land on Guadalcanal and one of the last to leave—after cutting several notches in his gun.

That briefly is the story concerning Sergeant-Major Ernest C. Kaehler, of Wapakoneta, who is visiting his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Accuntious, of east of Mansfield.

Sgt. Kaehler was ordered home recently for a 30-day "rest period". It is his first time home in four years.

Know how he's spending his time?

He's doing a little "battling" on the home front.

Yesterday he was helping his uncle and several other farmers with threshing operations on the Accuntius farm, but today he was going fishing at Charles Mill lake.

A husky chap, deeply tanned from the equatorial sun, he was pitching bundles of timothy from a mow into a huller, driving a tractor and doing a lot of other farm work yesterday.

The city administration's apparent lackadaisical handling of the appointment of an acting fire chief may leave Mansfield without a fire department head tomorrow when Chief Charles J. Seeburger leaves after 32 years with the department.

Service-Safety Director Fred B. Wolff said today that no action had been taken to appoint an acting chief, adding that something would be done about it "in a day or two."

Meanwhile, the same lackadaisical attitude toward awarding a contract for new radio equipment for the police department today prompted Police Chief Meade K. Bates to write formal letters to the service-safety director and Mayor W. J. Locke, urging action on the con-

Plant employes, who witnessed the accident, said Springer had waited for a westbound freight train to pass and then had started across the tracks, unaware of the approach of the eastbound passenger train.

His body was thrown about 20 feet and laid between the tracks when witnesses reached him.

Empire officials said Springer had gone to work there only last week and had worked only two days. He had not worked yesterday and his employers were un-

QUEBEC PLAN: MIGHTY BLOW AGAINST JAPS

FDR, Churchill Promise Air, Sea, Land Attacks Will Be Executed Soon.

RED ABSENCE CLEARED

Hint Possible Meeting With Russians Later on and French Recognition.

(By United Press)

QUEBEC—President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill announced today that their eight-day war conferences had been largely devoted to the war against Japan and promised that powerful "forward action" would be executed soon by the fleets, armies and air forces of the two nations.

In what probably will be regarded as their "declaration of Quebec," the two leaders announced the possibility of a tripartite conference with Soviet Russia, but in an explanatory press conference accompanying their statement explained tactfully that Russia was not asked to this largely Pacific meeting because she is not at war against Japan.

Refraining from any positive statement on details of decisions reached here, Mr. Roosevelt and the Prime Minister told in their joint statement how the war talks were devoted "largely" to "the war against Japan and the bringing of effective aid to China."

Then they announced their unanimous approval of the plans reached by their combined chiefs of staff and agreement on "political issues underlying or arising

CHUNGKING—(U.P.)—The Chinese Central News agency said today that Admiral Mineichi Koga, successor to the late Admiral Isoroku Yamamoto as commander in chief of the Japanese fleet, was killed last month in an Allied bombing in the southwest Pacific.

Quoting a Chinese military source, Central said Koga died aboard his flagship during an attack by Allied planes in the New Ireland-New Britain island area north of New Guinea.

Yamamoto, who boasted he would dictate peace terms in the White House, was killed in the South Pacific in an air combat, Tokyo revealed last May.

British Lose 58 Bombers In 'Rubble Raid'

Blow, Twice As Heavy As Any Hurled At Any Capital, Leaves Smoke Boiling Three Miles Into Sky; German Fighter Opposition Stiff.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(INS)—Britain sent reconnaissance planes over Berlin in daylight today which brought back photographs showing huge fires still blazing in the bomb-wracked Nazi capital. Vast clouds of smoke covered the center of Berlin.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—British bombers rained destruction upon Berlin last night in a saturation raid in which 58 bombers are missing, the British air ministry announced today.

It was estimated the RAF cast 2,000 long tons (2,240 U. S. tons) of bombs upon Berlin, but the largest number of bombers ever lost by the British in one night went down before the German capital's defenses.

The scope of the raid indicated that the Allied command was opening its supreme offensive against the German capital—free of large scale attack since the end of March—on a scale comparable to that which crumpled Hamburg into a heap of rubble.

The air ministry communique said that bombers attacked "in very great strength."

"The assault was delivered in clear weather just before midnight and preliminary reports indicated that the bombing was highly concentrated," the bulletin added.

Fifty-five bombers were lost on the double attack on Pilsen in Czechoslovakia and Mannheim Germany, on the night of April 16.

The Germans, in a series of nervous broadcasts, clearly indicated the size of the Berlin attack by telling of high explosives and incendiaries falling over a wide area from "large, enemy formations."

They asserted that at least 50 planes were shot down.

The devastation was plainly on a scale comparable to the power of the attack. One returning pilot told of smoke boiling up three miles into the sky.

The raid, it was estimated, was about twice as heavy as that ever launched upon any capital.

The RAF has dropped as high as 2,300 long tons of bombs in a single night before this, but never before has approached that figure in an operation of such length, complexity or significance.

Returning airmen told of relatively light Nazi anti-aircraft gun-

SHAKEUP: Hitler Gives Added Powers To Gestapo Chieftain

LONDON—Berlin announced a major shake-up in the state security branch of the Nazi regime today a few hours after a shattering air raid on the German capital, in which Interior Minister Wilhelm Frick was relieved of his post.

Heinrich Himmler, chief of the Gestapo, was appointed minister of interior, placing in his hands more power to cope with whatever eventualities the intensify ing Allied war against the Reich may bring.

The significance of the shuffle, reported in broadcasts making clear that Adolf Hitler himself engineered it, was not fully apparent immediately.

The official DNB news agency broadcast a statement announcing the reorganization affecting old guard Nazis high in the regime.

Frick was made Reich protector of Bohemia and Moravia, succeeding Baron Konstantin Von Neurath, who was relieved of the assignment "at his own wish."

Both Frick and Von Neurath retain the titles of Reich ministers, the DNB account said.

The Berlin report left the way open for an assumption that Robert Ley, head of the German labor front, had been or was being deposed. Without mentioning Ley's name, the statement said that the Reich labor service was divorced from the sphere of the interior ministry and Hitler "gave the rank of Reich minister to the

Sgt. O'Heron was awarded the DFC for action while on a bombing raid over Palermo, his parents said. Although wounded he administered first aid to other wounded crew members before submitting himself to treatment.

In his last letter, which his parents received July 31 he said he had but 12 more missions to complete before reaching 50 which would entitle him to a furlough. He said he hoped to have them completed in time to come home for his birthday, Sept. 18.

'OPEN': Italy Reports Steps Taken To Demilitarize Rome

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—Italy has formally advised the British and American governments of steps taken to demilitarize Rome with the view of having the Italian capital treated as an open city, a Stefani broadcast recorded by the Associated Press said today.

A Rome broadcast Aug. 14 said the government of Marshal Pietro Badoglio had decided to declare Rome an open city without further delay.

The broadcast added that such a decision had been communicated to the Allies through the Vatican two weeks previously.

It said the decision had been made because of the repetition of Allied air raids on the city. American bombers first attacked the Italian capital July 19 and returned there on Aug. 13.

Today's Stefani broadcast declared steps had already been taken to neutralize defensive installations and orders had been given to anti-aircraft batteries not to fire on planes over the city, while Italian intercep-

CHINA RELIEF COSTS NEARLY $6,000,000

Funds Are Used For Schools, Hospitals in War-Torn Nation.

(By International News Service)

CHUNGKING — If you have wondered where the money goes that is contributed for relief in China, the latest financial statement issued by the American Advisory Committee will furnish a satisfactory answer.

The Advisory committee, it may be explained, is a charitable organization in charge of allocating funds remitted by the United China Relief in America.

According to the statement, covering the year ending March 31, 1943, more than $5,742,950 was received.

The A. A. C. program is divided into five categories—medicine and public health, education, child welfare, disaster relief and economic reconstruction.

Medicine and public health took up the largest amount—$1,935,578. Under this category are listed such sub-projects as grants in aid to the Emergency Medical Service Training school, to the National Health Administration for Public Health work and to the national medical colleges.

In addition there are the international peace hospitals to maintain and the Friends Ambulance Unit for transport of medical supplies and a number of private hospitals which annually receive grants

Under education, which cost $1,070,276, were grants for 12 Christian universities and their affiliated schools. In pre-war days these institutions could obtain funds from many sources but since the war they look to China Relief.

Besides supporting the Christian institutions. A A C also extended aid to private schools and their faculties and in some cases students.

Child welfare projects cost $878,211. Grants were made to the National Association for Refugee Children, children's training schools in the northwest, private orphanages and a school for training gifted children from orphanages.

A total of $1,308,880 was spent for disaster relief. Grants also were made to groups engaging in soldiers' welfare and to leprosariums maintained by Christian institutions.

Chinese industrial co-operatives received $550,000.

ENSIGN KEYSER TAKES BRIDE IN FLORIDA

Miss Barbara Cosgrove Weds Ensign G. H. Keyser In Coral Gables Congregational Church; Dr. Stackman Officiates.

THE WEDDING of Miss Barbara Cosgrove, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond C. Cosgrove, 12 Garden place, East Walnut Hills, Cincinnati, to Ensign G. H. Keyser, former Mansfielder, took place July 15 in Coral Gables, Fla., it was revealed today. Ensign Keyser is the foster son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Ober, Park avenue west road. Cosgroves formerly lived here.

The nuptial service was read by Dr. Carl Stackman in the Congregational church of Coral Gables, in the presence of the immediate families and approximately one hundred naval officers and their wives from the nearby naval base.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a bouffant gown of white marquisette with a bodice of rosepoint lace. Her long veil of illusion fell from a Juliet cap of the same lace. The bridal bouquet was of orchids and gardenias.

Mrs. Caspar Smith of Coral Gables was matron of honor and the bride's only attendant. Her gown was an ashes of roses shade of marquisette and she wore a matching lace cap. She carried a bouquet of deep pink roses.

Ensign Edward R. McMillan, USNR, was best man. The ushers included Lieut. Thomas Key and Ensign Richard Hennesey, both of the naval reserve.

Mother of the bride wore a two-piece orchid dress suit. Mrs. Ober was attired in a white jersey gown with a rose spray design. Both wore corsages of baby orchids.

The reception for the wedding party was held at the Coral Gables Country club immediately after the ceremony.

Following a brief honeymoon, Ensign and Mrs. Keyser have just returned to Carol Gables and are making their home at 325 Viscaya avenue.

Hold Open Church For Wedding Of Miss Goldman

Open church will be observed Sunday for the wedding of Miss Evelyn Goldman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry E. Goldman, 356 North Townview Circle, and Morris Jacobowitz, son of Mr. and Mrs. I. Jacobowitz, New York city. Nuptial vows will be exchanged in the chapel of the Euclid avenue temple, East 82nd and Euclid avenue, Cleveland.

The ceremony is scheduled for 4 o'clock with friends and relatives in attendance. It will be an all-white service. Following the ceremony and reception the couple will leave for a trip and their future home in New York.

Miss Goldman, who formerly lived in Cleveland, has been feted at many lovely parties there during the past several weeks. Last week Mrs. L. J. Goler, Mrs. Victor Kevey and Mrs. Charles Weinstein entertained in the club room of the Mansfield-Leland hotel with a dinner party and shower for 50 guests, honoring Miss Goldman.

Two Entertain For Mrs. Massa At Barnett Home

Mrs. Harry Massa, the former Katherine Malone, was honored Saturday evening at a post nuptial shower given by Misses Winifred Bauer and Grace Barnett, at the latter's home, 15 Blanche street. Bridge and hearts were the diversions of the evening, with prizes being won by Misses Barbara McDowell Mackey, Hognauer, and Ruth Mains, who presented them to the bride.

Later Mrs. Massa was given a small box on which were tied many balloons with notes inside, which directed her where to find her gifts about the house. The hostesses presented her with a set of pyrex.

Luncheon was served at small tables decorated in pastel colors and each place was marked with small corsages.

Mr. and Mrs. Massa were married July 21 at Raleigh, N. C.

Elect Officers At Committee Meet Monday

Mrs. William Beer, 469 Cline avenue, was elected president of the Moosehcart committee of the Women of the Moose when she entertained the group at her home Monday evening. Other new officers are Mrs. Howard Hannan, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Glenn Lohner, reporter.

Plans for the com[illegible] were discussed during t[illegible] business session. Cards were in play for the social hour with prize won by Mrs. Hannan. The next meeting will be held Sept. 16 at the home of Miss Marie Moore, 349 Wayne street.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

A little warning bell sounded deep inside my consciousness. That Milner was staging a theatrical performance of his own I was sure, and it behooved me to watch my cues. But I knew that the name McIntyre struck no chord in my memory, and after a half second's reflection I gave him a negative answer.

"I do not remember having recommended anyone to you at any time," I said, "and off-hand the name means nothing to me. But—I meet so many people—I might be mistaken."

"I hate to ask you this," he said, "but would you mind seeing the boy? You see, he insists very positively that he knows you at the theater, and that you told him to come here and ask me for a job as a bell boy."

A Weary Gesture.

I brushed my hand over my eyes wearily.

"It is all very confusing," I murmured faintly "but if you consider it vital, I will see the boy. But I do not wish to enter into any conversation with him. I do not forget faces readily, and I shall know as soon as I see him whether or not I have ever talked with him."

"That is all I wish you to do, and I shall be so grateful if you can bring yourself to see him," Milner said effusively. "I will not trouble you with a recital of why it is so vital but please believe me that something most important hinges upon your identification—or lack of it."

"That is why I am consenting to see him," I said, purposely letting a bit of impatience creep into my voice. "Where is he?"

"Just outside," he answered. "I took the liberty of bringing him up with me, so as not to delay matters if you should consent to see him."

I almost shouted at him. "Do get on with this farce!" but put an iron clamp upon my impatience as I murmured: "It is perfectly all right. Bring him in, but I really must ask you to make haste."

Katharine caught my cue and bent over me with a careful simulated anxiety.

"You are sure you are not tiring yourself too much?" she asked anxiously.

"No," I answered hastily "but—"

She turned to him authoritatively:

"Please get through with this business as soon as possible," she said. "I really should not have permitted it, in the first place."

He was already at the door.

"It will take but a minute or two" he said apologetically then, raising his voice a trifle:

"Edwards!" he called. "In here!"

The next minute a stocky man with "house detective" written all over him, came through the door, with his right hand firmly gripping the arm of a nondescript-looking lad about 16 years of age.

McIntyre Introduced.

"This is McIntyre," Mr. Milner said crisply. "He says you said you would recommend him to me."

I looked at the boy closely, then shook my head. I was certain that I never had seen him anywhere. But before I could voice my denial, he uttered a shrill protest of his own.

"That ain't Missis Graham!" he declared.

"What do you mean?" Milner demanded sternly. "Of course this lady is Mrs. Graham."

"I don't care!" the boy insisted stoutly. "She ain't the dame over at the theater that told me her name was Mrs. Graham, and told me to send me to you for a job. This dame is older, and her hair is red. The other one's hair is black."

"Take him out and down to my office Edwards," the manager directed, and I fully expected to hear him follow the command with "Off with his head!" But instead he turned back to me as Edward propelled the boy from the room and closed softly.

"I am so desolated to have troubled you," he said. "Now I must find out whether he is making his story up out of whole cloth, or if there may be some woman at the theater who is impersonating you."

"I think it's most unlikely," I told him, "but I shall be interested to know what you find out."

Head start for school: Dobbs' casual felt roller is a classic campus standby.

Jane Wyman's all purpose print for fall wear is soft putty grey with a small yellow flower design. The dress is styled with cross-over front, long sleeves and side draped skirt. Jane, a Warner Bros. star soon appearing in "Thank Your Lucky Stars," wears the dress for all occasions from luncheon in town to supper parties at home. For the latter occasions, she tucks bright yellow flowers in her hair.

Auxiliary Meet Held At Legion Home Monday

Regular meeting of the American Legion Auxiliary was held last evening at the Legion home in charge of Mrs. Marie Dickson, president. Reports were given by the various committees. It was voted to send cigarets to veterans of World War II who are stationed at the Dayton hospital.

A Bible was presented to the Blue Star Mothers' club from the auxiliary. Mrs. Marie Castor and Mrs. Dickson, who were delegates to the department convention held in Cincinnati recently, gave their reports.

Later refreshments were served by Mrs. Hollis Moorhead and her committee. The next meeting will be held Sept. 13 for election of officers.

RE-DYEING DARK MATERIAL

Can dark fabrics be re-dyed to a lighter shade? Yes — and easily, too. Simply get a package of color remover. This takes out the old color safely. Then you can tintex the material any shade you want—with over 50 to choose from! You don't need the color remover on the other hand, when changing from a light to a dark shade.

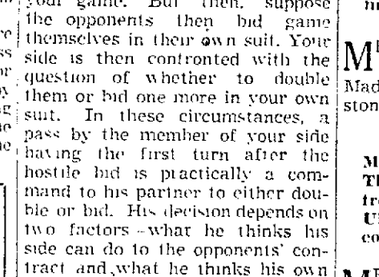
"The Authority on Authorities"

WHEN A PASS IS FORCING

Suppose your side has opened the bidding and, in a perfectly natural way, has reached a game contract despite repeated bids of their suit by opponents. You surely expect to be able to make your game. But then, suppose the opponents then bid game themselves in their own suit. Your side is then confronted with the question of whether to double them or bid one more in your own suit. In these circumstances, a pass by the member of your side having the first turn after the hostile bid is practically a command to his partner to either double or bid. His decision depends on two factors—what he thinks his side can do to the opponents' contract and what he thinks his own side can make.



(Dealer: West. Neither side vulnerable.)

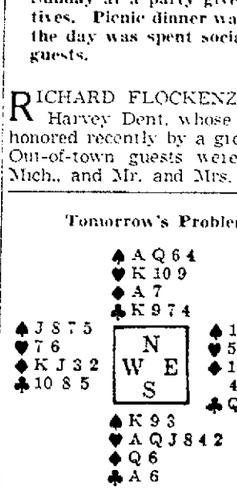
West	North	East	South
1 ♥	1 ♠	2 ♥	2 ♠
3 ♥	3 ♠	4 ♥	4 ♠
Pass	Pass	5 ♥

East did exactly right in making his bid of 5-Hearts, even though his side was set a trick. One trick was lost to the defenders in spades, one in diamonds and one in clubs.

In that position was a very skilled competitor, who did some careful figuring before he made his decision. First, he weighed the possibilities of defeating the 4-Spades contract. He decided it looked pretty doubtful, especially since the length of his own heart holding made it likely that one of the opponents would be void of that suit and therefore no defensive tricks could be taken in it. His spade K looked like a probable trick on the defense, but that would still make it necessary for his partner to score three tricks in the minor suits in order to beat the spade game.

Deciding that his opponents had a genuine chance to make their contract—which they really could, with the loss of only one trick in trumps plus one each in the two minors — he then weighed the probabilities regarding 5-Hearts being makable. He reckoned it would either be made or set one trick, so made that bid and thereby saved a lot of points at a very cheap cost.

Tomorrow's Problem.



Dealer: North. Neither side vulnerable.)

How would you play for 7-Hearts on this deal if West leads the heart 7? How if he leads the spade 5?

Let's have another cup of EXTRA-RICH, FLAVORFUL OLD RELIABLE COFFEE

Close Friends Have Party For Mrs. James Barr

Mrs. James Barr, Arnold drive, was surprised last evening with a birthday party, by close friends, at the home of Mrs. Bill Paul, 98 Ohio street. Associate hostess at the party was Mrs. J. Edward Clemens.

Games were played during the evening. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Martin Culler of Shelby, Mrs. Robert Warner and Mrs. Gerald Gladden.

Luncheon was served at the close of the evening from a long table centered with a large birthday cake decorated in yellow and green and an array of the honoree's birthday gifts. Other table appointments were also in yellow and green.

Those in attendance were Mrs. Culler, Mrs. Warner, Mrs. Neutzling, the hostesses, the honoree and Mrs. Bob Paul and Mrs. Gerald Gladden.

Handicap Can Be Overcome By Teaching

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.

Many a child on entering school does not speak plainly. Some have been encouraged in infantile speech by their parents who think this mode of speech is "cute." Some other children whose parents have tried to help them speak more plainly do not readily improve and even resent correction by their parents. Here is a sample:

"Dear Dr. Myers:—My boy, 5, about to enter school, does not talk plainly. We have had him examined by the doctor who finds no cause for his trouble in the tongue, palate or roof of mouth. He seems able, indeed, to make all the sounds when he tries but ordinarily makes such substitutes as d for g, t for c, ch for q, b for v. He has a good vocabulary, often using large words correctly. Just how should we work with him to make him talk more distinctly. He resents correction and being drilled. Thank you for any help you can give. A self-addressed stamped envelope is enclosed."

The Doctor's Reply.

You are right in wishing to help that child speak more plainly, otherwise he will be greatly handicapped at school. No matter how bright a child may be, he is adjudged duller by his classmates and teachers than he is if he continues to use infantile speech.

But successful efforts at helping this child speak plainly is a high art which not all mothers acquire. If the child is resistant to your assisting him, you will get nowhere. Your chief objective, then, is to induce him to want to co-operate with you, which may require infinite skill, tact and patience.

Don't Ridicule Child's Speech.

Be sure no one ridicules his speech. Better not try to correct him when others are present, except, perhaps, the father. Nor when he is earnestly telling you something. Don't break in on a sentence of his. When you feel very calm and affectionate, and he good natured, gently repear clearly the right sound at the end of his sentence.

As he succeeds, show strong approval. In reading to him, select rhymes and stories which contain many of the sounds he has trouble with. Read some to him every day. Encourage him to play with other children of his age.

I enclose a selected list of books from which to read to the baby and young child.

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, Aug. 25.

A rather critical state of affairs is read from this day's astral configurations. There may be excitement and emotional reactions detrimental to the successful launching and progress of important projects. Also there might be a sinister undercurrent, with suspicion and treachery to be sidestepped. Be careful with all papers and documents, affixing the signature with especial precaution. Granting this, there should arise very encouragaing openings for advancement, progress and productive work of high order.

Those whose birthday it is have much to gain by definite programs of vigilance, foresight and clear thinking. While promotion favors and major operations are in order, with skill, aggressive measures and sagacity, there should be a successful putting over of worthwhile projects. A substrata of deception, treachery and fraud may need vigilance. Also there may be a menace from emotional upsets or other temperamental behavior.

A child born on this day may have much skill and varied abilities, with force and character, but may find it difficult to put brakes on its emotions and impulses.

IN THE CAPITAL-- By Raymond Clapper

WASHINGTON—No matter how manfully Washington and London try to hide it, both capitals are uneasy about Russia's future course. They are left the more so by Stalin's strange timing in announcing Litvinoff's retirement as ambassador to the United States.

Why did Stalin make the announcement just as the Quebec conference was at its climax? Litvinoff has been in Moscow on leave for two months. Did Stalin make the announcement at this time as a gesture of impatience with the Allies?

Clapper

Litvinoff may not have had the confidence of Moscow, as has been suspected here for a long time. Still he has personified Russia's collaboration with the western world. He has come to be the weathervane of that collaboration. He was Russia's representative at Geneva until Moscow turned its back on the outside world and prepared to make a deal with Hitler. He came to America to negotiate recognition in 1933, and he was sent back here after Hitler's attack brought Russia into the war on our side.

Recently London was upset by the sudden withdrawal of Soviet Ambassador Maisky, who had served 11 years in Britain and was immensely popular. He was replaced by an obscure young bolshevik as was Litvinoff here.

As isolated incidents neither of these diplomatic shifts would cause question. But in the context of events they provoke wonder as we try to understand our inscrutable Asiatic ally. Popular needling of Moscow communism may occur in this country, but our government and the British government and the British people know that Russia's cooperation is essential to both victory and real control over the peace.

Anglo-American solidarity is not enough. Regardless of our wishes, Russia's ambitions will determine the settlements in some areas, such as the Baltic states. Who will stop her? Nobody. Russia is taking credit for enormous German losses this summer, amounting to a million men or one-third of the estimated German forces on the Russian front. By emphasizing that, Russia establishes her privilege of taking independent action. In view of the giant's role Russia is playing in the war and the amount of blood she has paid, clamor for a second front is natural.

What disturbs us more is the uncertainty as to whether Russia will collaborate with the western nations or entrench in her heartland and reach out only as she wishes. Will Russia insist on going through Iran to the Persian gulf? American engineers have developed enormous port and transportation facilities for that route. The Soviets recently surprised the British by sending two regiments into the British zone without first requesting permission.

Finland still trembles to know what Moscow's wish is for her. Does Russia want a sphere of influence over Germany that would include Berlin? That question is discussed among continental exile governments in London. What about Japan? London thinks Russia will help with bases because Stalin will want to regain Port Arthur and other former Russian territory in the Pacific area. When Joseph E. Davies went to Moscow recently the Nazi press harped on the theme that we were trying to obtain Stalin's promise of bases for the war against Japan.

We are not likely to have exactly the kind of world we want after this war. We might not even win the war if Russia should break off with a separate peace, which, however, does not make much sense from the Russian point of view since Stalin wants to eliminate Hitler and the Nazis as much as we do.

Roosevelt and Churchill have ostentatiously tried to cultivate Stalin. They begged him to attend the Casablanca conference and would have gone anywhere to meet him. They undoubtedly wanted him to be represented in the Quebec discussions but the Moscow press and radio have circulated haughty hints that Russia wasn't invited.

In November, 1942, on the twenty-fifth Soviet anniversary, Stalin said the Anglo-Soviet-American coalition was necessary to crush the common enemy. The coalition is equally necessary to preserve the peace.

LEWIS DELAYS ACTION UPON MINE RETURN

Waits WLB Ruling on Illinois Contract, Despite Threat To Work Only For Government.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers today was expected to withhold "action" on restoration of some 100 mines to private owners pending a decision by the War Labor Board on his contract with Illinois bituminous operators.

The board's approval or rejection of the Illinois agreement, including near-fulfillment of the miners' wage demands and the controversial portal-to-portal pay issue, may determine Lewis' attitude toward his June 22 pledge to mine coal only for the government. The board's decision may be handed down this week.

Lewis had "no comment" to make on the announcement by coal administrator Harold L. Ickes yesterday that he was returning the first major block of government seized mines to their operators. They have been under government operation since May 1.

That no new work stoppage would be called now in those privately-operated fields was seen in a NMW spokesman's reference to a "significant" part of Lewis' so-called June ultimatum:

". . . The continued production of coal while the problem of a justifiable wage increase and payment for 'portal to portal' pay can be worked out."

The WLB is "working out" those issues now in the Illinois case.

The returned mine fields, belonging to 53 companies, represent a "very sizable tonnage" of total annual bituminous production.

To the Illinois contract was added another UMW problem for settlement by the WLB following a stormy hearing yesterday on the deadlocked negotiations between anthracite operators and union spokesmen for 77,000 hard coal diggers.

Making his second appearance before the board, Lewis recalled the hazards of the industry and the "human rights" of the miners, as he had done in the August 3 hearing on the Illinois contract.

The renewed appeal was interpreted by at least one board member as an 11th hour attempt to seek approval of the bituminous agreement.

ARMY SHIFTS 3 GENERALS IN NATIONAL POSTS

Drum Leaves First Army To Head Defense Board; Embick and Grunert Moved.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — A triple-shift of army three-and two-star generals was announced by the war department today with Lieut. Gen. Hugh A. Drum relinquishing command of the First Army and eastern defense command to become chairman of the inter-American defense board.

Lieut. Gen. Stanley D. Embick, who has been chairman of the inter-American board, goes to an undisclosed assignment described as of "key importance."

Maj. Gen. George Grunert is assigned to New York, apparently as Drum's temporary successor, with the title of deputy commander of the eastern defense command and First Army, responsible for the security of 55,000,000 Americans along the eastern seaboard.

The inter-American board, representing 21 American republics, is charged with devising measures necessary for hemispheric defense.

Grunert has been at Washington headquarters of the army service forces as deputy chief of staff for service commands. Now 68, he is a native of White Haven, Pa., enlisted in the army at 18. He won the Distinguished Service Medal, the Purple Heart and the French Legion of Honor in the first World war.

Drum, who has commanded the First Army and eastern defense command since August 1939, originated the "tank destroyers" during the First army maneuvers in 1941. Drum was born at Fort Brady, Mich., and was commissioned in the regular army infantry in 1898. In the World war, he was a brigadier general and chief of staff of the First Army in France.

Embick was retired in 1940, but recalled to active duty to continue his work with the war plans division of the general staff.

FAIR ENOUGH-- By Westbrook Pegler

NEW YORK—A few days after my little side-trip from Rome to Mussolini's adaptation of Mrs. Roosevelt's Arthurdale experiment at Pontinia, a fellow called up one morning and said he could fix up a visit with Mussolini's girl, strictly in the interests of journalism, of course, and was I interested. With my ardent nature and my devotion to my work, could I say no? Du Barry! Pompadour!

Pegler

Love, that beautiful mystery, was never so baffling as on that rainy afternoon when my friend hove to at an apartment near il duce's own estate and, after the usual small ceremonies, led me into the presence of a moist and slappy object reclining on a couch and introduced me with the raucous elegance of a master of ceremonies commending a microphone diseuse in a joint below Congress on Wabash, in Chicago, for the 2 a. m. show.

He had the suffocating honor to present an American journalist to a lady of incomparable charm, a distinguished professional colleague, the amanuensis and biographer of no less than himself, Benito Mussolini, the duce of the Italian people and the rebuilder of the Roman empire.

She was pink-haired and portly and gurgled like a hot water bottle as she shifted on her couch, never disturbing, however, her left foot which rested at an elevation on an elaborate cushion. She had, she said, the gout, in a land where the people were going hungry in compliance with il bum's commands to sacrifice for fascism and the empire.

I mentioned my visit to Pontinia and the sacrifice of their wedding rings and their precious, trashy little gold-washed lockets and watch-chains by so many thousands of poor, muddy Italian farm-people and, as she floated and swashed on her pillows, Signora Margherita G. Sarfatti said that yes, the Italian people were very loyal and brave. I noticed, and so did my friend, that as she praised the fineness of the common people of Italy and their devotion to il bum, she twisted a ring on her own wedding finger which mounted two enormous diamonds. She wasn't trying to hide it. She was beyond even that decency, a sordid, arrogant grafter and original member of the gang who was on her way out of power and out of Italy even then, although she didn't know it.

Sarfatti's principal graft was the journalistic by-product of il bum's position.

She had visited the United States and met many powers in the New Deal and some of our noted syndicate managers and publishers and had sold copy to the value of an enormous fortune in any nation's money, much of it ghosted material under Mussolini's name. Fascism was something new and tremendously interesting in the early stages and publishers not only here but in Britain and Europe as well were paying high for authentic information. Moreover, Sarfatti had a son, a lawyer, who had been dropped into the fascist regime and he was the man who had to be seen by any American importing agent who wanted to ship back to the United States more money than the fascist law allowed.

My friend was an importing agent and had had dealings with Sarfatti's cub on terms which gave to the son of il duce's love-interest 50 per cent of the money thus freed from the Italian treasury.

I have never kept a diary but I did write a letter home about my visit to Sarfatti which recently came back to me when she was reported to be in Buenos Aires, having earlier been chased out of Italy for reasons which I can speculate upon. One would be that she was very untoothsome as age came over her and had been well paid off in her special graft derived from the exploitation of il bum's office and such other loot as she and hers collected along the way. The other would be that when il bum sold out to Hitler he accepted Hitler's anti-Semitism. She was first reported to have gone to Paris where Italo Balbo and even il bum, himself, were supposed to have caches of money and I hadn't heard of her again until the New York Times had a story about her under a Buenos Aires date-line. If we ever do go through with our threats to destroy not only fascism but those who were blood-guilty of fascism, Sarfatti, by any fair process, should be put against a wall for she was one of the lowest and meanest of the whole greedy crew.

BICKER ANYHOW

Three Agencies Fume Under Lid Clamped on By FDR.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Under the official lid clamped on interagency bickering by President Roosevelt, there's a three-agency tug-of-war going on over irrigation projects to grow war food, "D. C. Speaker" said today.

"It's no secret that the reclamation bureau of the interior department) isn't exactly happy over the way their recommendations for irrigation projects slow down to a walk going through war food administration and then are tomahawked when they reached the non-industrial facilities committee of war production board," reported speaker, the unofficial capital authority.

Reclamation bureau has recommended approximately 50 projects to WFA as potential food production acreage. The food agency has cleared 10 projects to the WPB committee, which has aproved five, rejected three and has two still under consideration.

CHARGES STATE LAX IN DUTIES

Lausche Attacks Failure To Care For Defectives as Bricker Goes Fishing.

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND—Mayor Frank J. Lausche today accused State Welfare Director Herbert R. Mooney of failure to assume responsibility for care of mental defectives and the Plain Dealer reported the state administrator would not be represented at the mayor's second conference on care of mental cases.

The first meeting last week ended with Mooney promising to survey state institutions to see whether the state could care for more mental cases but Lausche indicated dissatisfaction over his failure to get immediate action.

Lausche called together local officials, judges and psychiatrists after the arrest of Henry Hagert, 17-year-old boys' industrial school parolee charged with first degree murder of twin 13-year-old boys.

The Plain Dealer quoted Gov. John W. Bricker as saying "I heard there was a lot of confusion at the meeting last week. This Henry Hagert whose crimes set the thing off was neither feeble-minded nor insane, yet the only mental cases not being taken care of are feeble-minded."

Mayor Lausche countered with: "I regret the governor made that statement, but since he did, I must say that whatever confusion existed resulted from the failure of the state's representative to assume responsibility in the care of mental defectives."

The Plain Dealer reported the governor said he had not been invited to today's second conference and that neither he nor Mooney would attend. City Welfare Director Edward L. Worthington said he invited Mooney but the welfare director declined.

The governor planned to leave Ohio today for a Wyoming fishing trip.

OHIO Scattered thundershowers in east and extreme south portion today. Continued rather warm this afternoon and tonight.

Five small boys ranging from 9 and 13 years of age were much bewildered when they arrived in juvenile court for a hearing yesterday. And even the court was inclined to feel that the "boys will be boys" maxim applied to them. They had been caught red-handed with a carton of paper seeks they had helped themselves to from the storeroom of a Park avenue east bakery. It was just fun and they hadn't intended to steal because the paper bags furnished them with a game. When juvenile authorities found the five youngsters, they were having a grand time blowing up the bags and bursting them. They were released after a lecture.

Mitchell was puzzled for a while about how any one could have got the car away after he failed. Then police explained everything. They had found the car abandoned in the middle of the street between Orange street and Ashland road and ordered it towed to a garage.

BIG TIRE PLANT EXPANSION DUE

Jeffers Says Rubber Firms Will Finance $95,000,000 Factory Development.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Rubber Director William M. Jeffers today disclosed plans for a $95,000,000 expansion of the nation's tire manufacturing facilities.

"It's a whale of an expansion program," Jeffers said. "And what is more the rubber companies are putting their own money into it. That's what I'm interested in."

The program has been submitted by Jeffers to the War Production board which will determine whether the steel and other necessary materials can be allotted for its fulfillment.

Jeffers' disclosure followed published reports that the American public would continue to be in bad shape for tires, despite increasing output of synthetic rubber, because of a lack of tire-making facilities.

The burly, plain-spoken rubber director described the pessimistic reports on tire-making facilities as overstating the case."

Jeffers said that, despite the shortage of facilities, the country still will produce this year some 3,000,000 or 6,000,000 synthetic tires—the estimate which he put forth several months ago.

The new program, if approved by the WPB industrial facilities committee, may be completetd in about six months or in time to step up the output of synthetic tires in 1944. The first units are scheduled to "come in" next November. Jeffers previously had estimated that the country will need a minimum of 30,000,000 synthetic tires next year.

Catholic Delegates Call Present Fashions 'Indecent'.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — (INS) — Delegates to the National Catholic Women's union meeting in Springfield today vigorously criticized what they described as the "offensive, indecent and shameless dress of the modern woman."

The women asked for a campaign by all Catholic organizations to educate women to "dress decently," and to avoid public bathing beaches where men and women are seen in the scantiest of attire.

SCRAP NEEDED

Salvage Official In Appeal To Industries In Area.

More scrap is needed from industries in the Mansfield area, W. A. Snyder, field representative of the industrial salvage branch of the War Production Board, said today.

Figures on the industrial scrap salvage for July which were recently compiled by the scrap salvage committee are the lowest since February. The total amount of scrap for July was 8,812,657 tons, he said.

In June the total was more than nine million tons, while in the three preceding months it had been more than 10 million tons. In February the amount of scrap had totaled only a little more than four million.

The scrap salvage drive was started in April, 1942. Since then 103,717,516 tons of scrap have been collected from the city's industries.

Coach Paul Snyder's tackle problem for this fall's Mansfield High grid team may be partly solved.

Gene Haff, 175-pound lineman from Ironton, offers the partial solution.

"I won't know until I see him go, whether he's going to play tackle or not," was Snyder's noncommital comment, and then he beamed: "But I'll say this for him, he's big enough."

Snyder can thank some of his Tygers for some very good missionary work in bringing the Ironton boy into camp.

Although his family moved here this summer, Haff, a senior, was all set to go back to Ironton this fall to play where he knew he had a regular position waiting for him.

Rus McBride, Roland Schmidt and Bill Lewis have been giving him a sales talk on Mansfield for the past two weeks, and the past week-end brought the announcement that he had definitely decided to stay here.

Up until now, Lewis, at 175, has been the biggest guy on the Tyger squad, which will average around 160 pounds, or eight pounds to the man less than the undefeated 1941 team.

Some of the boys thought that 1941 team was the biggest the Tygers ever had, so I had to set 'em right on that score.

The 1923 club, which could have matched weights with most college teams, was much bigger. The backfield wasn't so big, but the line averaged close to 200, and was really big from tackle to tackle.

Remember that team? Percy and Ferguson at ends, Eller and Hunter at tackles, Frickman and Willmore at guards, Griffin, center, McElroy, Smith, Pesano and McFadden in the backfield.

Little Flick Flockenzier goes to Cleveland today to be examined for the navy.

And there goes one of the city's best athletes—for his size Trouble was, Flick never had the size. He had everything else, ability, coordination, and guts.

Recognized as one of the best ball handlers in the high school cage squad a year ago, he was considered too small for a regular berth. He fooled 'em last winter, went down to the Y. M. C. A. and led the City league in scoring. He was one of the city's better softball and baseball players this summer.

I played a round of golf with Flick a week ago. The little fellow really smacks a long ball.

Did I mention guts a while back? Last summer he won a caddy tournament at Westbrook ON CRUTCHES, after a foot had been mashed while he was working on the railroad. Only 17, Flick is enlisting.

Galento Loses Third Round

NEWARK, N. J. —(AP)— Two-Ton Tony Galento today had lost three successive rounds in his fight with New Jersey law.

Round one of Tony's tiff with the law ended with Tony flat on the street in front of his tavern after he had engaged Police Officer James Mecben in a fist fight over whether a nickel should have gone into a parking meter when Mrs. Galento had parked her car last June 16. The second round was scored for the law when Police Judge Philip Singer found Galento guilty on assault and battery charges and fined him $25. The third round was staged yesterday when Common Pleas Judge Daniel Brennan reaffirmed a lower court's decision that Tony had been a disorderly person. Galento's fine of $10 was also upheld.

Appling Slips From Top Spot

NEW YORK —(AP)— Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals continued his merry way at the top of the National league hitters this week, but Luke Appling, veteran shortstop of the Chicago White Sox, slipped out of the American league lead.

Appling, who was on top with a .336 average last Tuesday, skidded into second place behind rookie Dick Wakefield, Detroit's flying tiger, who moved up slightly, from .327 to .330.

* * *

Billy Herman of Brooklyn held steadily in second place in the National league with 329, twenty-three points behind Musial's pace-making .352.

Al Smith Slammed By Bosox

Boston Gets 13 Hits In His Seven Innings.

CLEVELAND —(AP)— The current eight game series between Cleveland and Boston stands at 2 to 1 for the Indians today, the result of a pair of victories by second string pitchers and a loss by veteran ace Al Smith.

The Red Sox picked on Smith for 13 hits, three of them two-baggers, in the seven innings he worked yesterday, defeating the Indians 9-7 in the opener of a scheduled bargain bill. The afterpiece was delayed to Thursday by weather.

The two teams move to Cleveland Stadium for a double-header today, and back to League park for another twin bill Wednesday. The Tribe had two triumphs Sunday.

Held hitless by Pitcher George Woods until the fourth inning, the Indians broke into the scoring column when Jeff Heath poled his fifth home run in six days over the wall, boosting his total to 14. Roy Cullenbine blasted another circuit clout in the eighth.

The Sox held a 9 to 3 lead at the eighth inning, with Woods and Outfielder Leon Culberson batting in a pair of runs apiece to help the cause along.

The Indians tallied in the fifth on a double by Mickey Rocco and a single by Mack, and scored in the sixth on a single by Oris Hockett, walks to Heath and Cullenbine and a long fly by Rocco.

* * *

The four-run eighth inning started with Cullenbine's round-tripper. Buddy Rosar and Rocco doubled and Ray Mack singled to produce three more, and send Woods to the showers. Tex Hughson came to the mound and put down the uprising.

REDS WARM

PHILADELPHIA —(AP)— The Cincinnati Reds take their final fling on an eastern diamond this season tonight when they play the Philadelphia Phillies.

Following the contest they move home to prepare for a four-game joust with the league-leading world champion Cardinals.

If the Reds win tonight they will sweep the Philly series and take back home one of the best road records in recent seasons. The tour shows 11 wins in 20 games to date.

* * *

Despite their good showing, the Reds have been able to gain little ground on the Cards who are still in front of the second-place Cincinnati team by an even dozen games.

Johnny Vander Meer will oppose Dick Barrett in tonight's game.

Montgomery Cops Nod Over Zivic

PHILADELPHIA —(UP)— Lightweight Champion Bob Montgomery stood out today as the ring's master in-fighter after beating expert Fritzie Zivic at his own close-quarter game.

Montgomery hammered out a decisive decision over the 30-year-old former welterweight champion in their 10-round nontitle bout before one of the year's largest boxing crowds—21,152 paying fans—last night at Shibe park.

Brown-skinned Montgomery of Philadelphia, making his third appearance since winning the lightweight crown from Beau Jack in May, had command of the bout in most stages because of his superiority at close quarters. He combined his youth, strength and ring craft to "bull" ancient Fritzie from rope to rope and to slow him with crushing body barrages almost every time the pug-nosed Pittsburgh veteran threatened to take control.

PLUG SCHEDULE

CHICAGO —(UP)— Big Ten athletic directors met today in an effort to plug schedule gaps in the football programs of Michigan and Purdue. The Wolverines and Boilermakers were left with open dates when Michigan State dropped football.

Favored Tennis Stars Advance

PHILADELPHIA —(UP)— Top-ranking girl tennis stars of the nation moved into the upper brackets of the National Girls' Lawn Tennis championship matches at Philadelphia Cricket club today by virtue of easy victories over less-experienced opponents.

The field of 50 was reduced to 16 as play opened for the second day. Remaining players include Shirley Fry, Akron, who defeated Jean Cooper, Ocean City, N. J., 6-0, 6-1 and then bettered Annette Danenhower, Lansdown, Pa., 6-0, 6-3.

Fortman Returns To Pro Grid Game

PITTSBURGH— (UP) — Danny Fortmann, recognized as one of the best guards in professional football said today that he would give up his post as assistant to Clark Shaughnessy of the University of Pittsburgh and rejoin the Chicago Bears this year.

Fortmann, a 210 pound six footer, retired from the pro ranks last summer and started his medical training here. He plans to play for the Bears on Sunday when not on hospital duty and left today to join the club in training. He was granted a leave of absence from the hospital.

Fortmann said he would help coach at Pitt if he finds that his schedule will permit it. He also hopes to work out with the Panthers during the week to keep himself in shape for Sunday play.

New Ring Star Born In Philly

Cops Spotlight By 5th Knockout Win.

By JACK CUDDY

PHILADELPHIA — (UP) — Juste Fontaine looks like a sleek young greyhound, despite his broad shoulders. But this new fistic star, who was born in a white patch of ring light at Shibe park last night, packs a "block buster" in each fist.

Handsome, 18-year-old Fontaine almost tore the block off Quenzell McCall, highly-touted young Philadelphia Negro lightweight, in the first round of their preliminary bout on the Montgomery-Zivic card. He stole the show completely from a flock of better known pugilists.

Never did a youngster make his eastern debut more auspiciously than this kid from Milwaukee as he registered a first-round knockout before one of the year's largest boxing crowds (21,452) and on a program that had attracted big shots of the fight mob from most sections of the east and mid-west.

Jolting Juste of the wavy light brown hair seemed to be boxing on even terms with his more experienced opponent until — wham! There was a maroon glove-blur as his right fist shot out and hit the Negro. McCall hit the canvas as if yanked backwards by a lariat. He rose on wobbly legs just before the count of ten only to be met by a crushing left hook that sent him slithering face-down on the canvas, where he remained as the full count was completed at 2:59.

The fight mob had heard of young Fontaine, but they took reports of his prowess with tongue in cheek. Fritzie Zivic, former welterweight champion, is his manager. Most "men of the fancy" in the east considered Fontaine just another "prop" in the Zivic road show. But now it means something when fast-talking Zivic says, "that's his fifth knockout in seven professional fights. He's a helluva puncher. I became his manager after I boxed with him in the gym one day, and he hit me on the chin—harder than anybody ever hit me before. And I have been hit by a lotta good punchers."

Fontaine, now a lightweight packing 128¼ pounds on a five-foot-seven chassis, will grow into a welterweight. Zivic promises, "he'll be ready to lift the welter crown from Red Cochrane when Cochrane gets out of the navy. He'll even things up for me." It was Cochrane who wrested the 147-pound title from Zivic.

Fontaine has been boxing as an amateur for four years—golden glove flyweight and bantamweight champion of Wisconsin. He had his first professional fight in June—a one-round knockout.

Juste is 4-F in the draft because of a perforated eardrum suffered while swimming. Because of his punch, he's the most promising young civilian in the lightweight division. In these war days, when talent is scarcer than alligator feathers, he looks like a gold mine.

THE CLUBHOUSE

By FRITZ HOWELL

VANDALIA—(AP)—There won't be as many sore shoulders as usual this year at the Grand American Trapshoot!

The reason? Well, the clay target marksmen will be "kicked" only 500 times, instead of 1900, by their 12-gauge shooting irons.

Hampered by war-occasioned restrictions and a drastic shortage of scattergun ammunition, the "Roaring Grand" has been slashed from eight to three days. The program, scheduled Aug. 25, 26 and 27, has been cut from 1900 targets to 500—thereby saving each full-route entrant 56 boxes of shells.

A year ago more than a million exploding shells sent reverberations up and down the Miami valley, but no one has any idea how many shots will be fired in the 44th annual classic.

One thing is certain—all the ammunition fired will be "toted" in by the shooters, for the big shoot is on a "bring your own shells" basis for the first time. Previously, the entrants were forced to buy their ammunition on the grounds, or face disqualification.

With the program cut to 200 targets at 16 yards, 100 at doubles and 200 at handicaps, the scattergun enthusiasts will find a big cut in entry fees. In former years a shooter participating in all events, with a bit of "optional" wagering on the side, paid about $350 for his week of firing. That was in addition to his transportation, meals, hotel bills and other incidentals.

However, he stood to win much more, for the prize list was in the neighborhood of $50,000—the grand finale handicap alone offering a guaranteed purse of $10,000. That guarantee will be off this year, the prizes being set to correspond with the number of entrants.

While dropping the bars on ammunition—none being available for sale these days—the Amateur Trapshooting Association has stuck to its load limitations. Hunting ammunition may be used in the big shoot, but the shells must NOT contain more than three drams of powder and one and one-eighth ounces of shot.

Last season, although America was at war, the event drew more than 1,100 shooters from the Western Hemisphere. Represented were all the states, all of Canada's provinces, Mexico, Cuba and the Canal Zone. The big handicap attracted 965 shooters, fourth largest attendance in its 43-year history.

This year's entry isn't expected to drop off much, despite the shell shortage and travel difficulties. Several state shoots set new attendance records this year. 334 attending Ohio's championship affair for a new national mark although the fixture was on a "bring your own shells" basis.

Not many years ago there was NO charge for spectators at the "Roaring Grand", but the fans flooded the grounds and almost crowded out the shooters. Now there's a gate charge—for the sole purpose of holding down the number of spectators. The gate receipts go to the Red Cross and the USO.

With ammunition at a premium, NO practice rounds will be permitted at the Grand, each contest going "cold" to the firing line.

Chances are "old men" will dominate the shoot, the youngsters being involved in a more serious bit of shooting in other parts of the globe. But the oldsters can furnish their share of the color, among them being:

Charley (Sparrow) Young, 80-year-old Springfield, O., star, who won the $10,000 handicap with 100 straight in 1926, and who stands to win about $13,000 if he can do it again; Forest McNeir, the Houston, Tex., veteran who holds the Carnegie Gold Medal for heroism and many trapshooting titles; Mark Arie of Champaign, Ill., who has won more than $150,000 in purses and trophies with a second-hand gun he bought for $40 about 30 years ago; and Frank Troeh of Portland, Ore., who has been winning clay target titles for as long as even "Sparrow" Young can remember.

Hambletonian Winner Hurt

Volo Song Scratched After Finishing Eighth.

GREENVILLE, O.—(AP)— Placing first in both heats, Aaron Williams Darnley captured the $7,084 Horseman's Futurity, feature event of the Darke county fair's harness racing opening program here yesterday.

The Corning, N. Y., brown colt took the 3-year-old trot in 2:04¾ and 2:06 with Austin Hanover, owned by Wilco Farms of Logansport, Ind., second in each heat.

The 1943 Hambletonian winner, Volo Song, placed eighth in the first heat and was scratched for the second because of a minor leg injury. Phonograph, owned by Joseph Burke of Plainfield, N. J., also was scratched after placing tenth.

Judge Patchen, owned by J. E. Kelly of Bangor, Me., took the 2:24 pace for a $300 purse in three straight heats in times of 2:07¾, 2:05½ and 2:08½ with Red Abbe owned by Dr. Paul Bernard of Sabina, O., placing second, fourth and second.

The $500 two-year-old pace's first heat was won by Anti-aircraft owned by Kelly and the second heat was taken by Gay Adam, owned by Gray Brothers of Providence, R. I., in 2:10 and 2:11.

Peck Abbe, owned by F. G. Vandenburg of Wilmington, O., and driven by West, placed 5-6-6 in the 2:24 pace.

Westies Win Over Galion

Winebrenner Pitches and Bats In Victory.

Westinghouse softballers got back on the winning side of the ledger last night at Galion, defeating the Galion Iron Works 9-2.

Stub Winebrenner coasted to victory after his mates spotted him to seven runs in the opening heat, but he wasn't coasting up at the platter. Stub led both teams at bat with three hits in as many trips.

Friday evening the Westies go to Loudonville where they play under the lights. And Sunday they give Mansfield fans their big game of the season, meeting the Loram Carck Meats at Liberty park at 2:30 p. m. The Careks defeated the Westies in the finals of the Oberlin tournament.

Athletics On Way to New Mark

Record For Losing Looms For Mackmen.

By JUDSON BAILEY

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

THE Philadelphia Athletics seems to know enough about baseball to understand that record books can be opened either from the front or the back.

Left to their own devices, the awkward A's have a chance to set a modern major league record.

This record, of course, is for losing games. Connie Mack's meandering trouble lost two more to the Chicago White Sox last night 7-6 and 7-0 to make 19 consecutive defeats.

This is just one short of the longest losing streak in the big leagues since the turn of the century and the A's not only have a chance to tie this time-worn standard tonight, but to wipe it out. They are scheduled for another twilight-night double header at Chicago.

If they hurdle this obstacle in record-breaking style, the 1943 Athletics will have carved a niche in diamond history and they might even pass the losingest team of all-time, the 1899 Cleveland club in the National league which tossed off 24 consecutive defeats.

The A's had a chance to win their twilight tussle last night. Going into the ninth inning tied, Bob Estalella smacked a two-run homer that put them in front. This was too much for the Athletics, however, and in the last half of the inning, after Guy Curtright had homered with one on to tie the score, Relief Pitcher Russ Christopher walked his rival moundsman, Gordon Maltzberger, with the bases loaded to force in the winning run. In the second game Orval Grove pitched a six-hit shutout.

The New York Yankees bounced back against the Detroit Tigers to win 4-1 with Bill Zuber pitching six-hit ball and Joe Gordon and Nick Etten each driving in two runs. Gordon's came on his 12th home run.

The Boston Red Sox beat the Cleveland Indians 9-7 despite homers by Jeff Heath and Roy Cullenbine and a four-run eighth inning rally by the time.

Weather forced postponement of the second game of doubleheaders scheduled at both Detroit and Cleveland.

Washington's struggling Senators rallied for five runs in the 10th inning to beat the St. Louis Browns, 10-5 after Stan Spence had hit two home runs in the regulation distance, but the Browns beat their former teammate, Johnny Niggeling, 2-1 in the second game.

In the only game in the National league, the St. Louis Cardinals breezed to a 14-5 triumph over the Boston Braves with a 19-hit attack in which all the Redbirds shared.

SPRINGFIELD GETS ANOTHER CHANCE

CHARLOTTE, N. C.—(AP)—The Springfield, O., George Cultice Post team will get another chance to reach finals of the National Legion junior baseball tournament although it lost to Birmingham, Ala., in sectional play.

Following Birmingham's withdrawal from the tourney because it had used an ineligible player, tournament officials decided to let Springfield and Whiteville, N. C., meet to decide the section C champion. The game will be played at Miles City, Mont., where the National finals will be held.

MILITARY MEN DOUBT WAR TO END THIS YEAR

April 15, 1944, Picked as Average of Their Guesses on the 'Day.'

(Editor's Note: Hugh Baillie, president of the United Press, has returned after a tour of European war fronts in England, North Africa and Sicily. Here he reveals why the men who are directing the offensives against Germany and Italy do not share civilian optimism over an early end of hostilities.)

By HUGH BAILLIE
(President of the United Press)

NEW YORK — Returning from a two months visit to the Allied fighting fronts in Europe, Africa and Sicily, you are surprised to find people at home making bets that the war will be over this year. This is an optimism that is not shared by any Allied commander I saw. They are making no such bets at the fronts.

After dinner recently at the British headquarters of a man who has a part in running the present air offensive against Germany, we took a poll on possible dates for victory in Europe. Each guest wrote his guess on a slip of paper and placed it in a hat. Those present included RAF and American air force officers. The average of all the dates was then computed and it came out as April 15, 1944.

The war in Europe is rolling splendidly toward a victorious conclusion. But it would be foolish to assume that operations intended to beat Germany into unconditional surrender could be mounted and successfully carried out before the end of this year.

Even the most sanguine of the commanders directing the colossal bombing operations which are erasing one German industrial center after another expects no such swift collapse.

In fact, it is felt among the men who are running the war that the present is a period of crisis. If undue optimism cuts down production at home or reduces the acceleration in any war endeavor, the military victory could be postponed for years.

The Sicilian campaign required months of preparation and when the blow was finally launched, we were able to put nearly 200,000 men into that comparatively small island. This army, which included troops rated as the best fighting units of the United States and Great Britain, had on its side absolute domination of the air and absolute domination of the sea.

The Germans put up a tough resistance.

This war in the field is being conducted by men who do not favor wild throws of the dice or spectacular adventures. Their strategy is the same as the Germans used earlier in the war before their Russian mistake, namely the application of irresistible force so that there will be no chance of a defeat and a minimum of casualties.

The enormous amount of effort and strength which must be poured into the organization of a military undertaking of even such a limited nature as the Sicilian offensive was amply demonstrated to all who were in a position to see it.

HAUL COAL

Ashland School Officials Solve Labor Shortage.

ASHLAND—Three Ashland officials helped solve the manpower shortage here by hauling coal to three Ashland school buildings and getting it into the bins.

J. E. Bohn, Ashland schools superintendent, Phillip Lersch, clerk of the board of education and A. B. Gorsuch, new high school principal, donned their old clothes Saturday and hauled and unloaded coal at the high school, Grant street and Pleasant street elementary school buildings.

By Monday they were back at their regular duties, none the worse for their experience except for a few blisters on their hands and some stiff muscles.

Gas Book Coupon Exchange Off To Slow Beginning

The last week in which to exchange the old-style B or C gasoline ration books for the new type got off to a slow start yesterday, C. C. Beelman, chairman of the ration board, said.

The old-style B or C coupons will not be redeemable after Sept. 1, and must be exchanged at the ration board before that time. Officials are expecting a rush at the office during the last few days of the week, and have asked for volunteers to help in the gasoline department. Persons who are able to volunteer for service at the board are asked to contact Beelman.

Many supplemental gasoline rations are also being renewed at this time. In renewing supplemental applications, rationing boards will automatically restore the mileage lost in reducing coupon values from four to three gallons for motorists who still qualify for the same mileage.

SUPPOSE WE'LL HAVE A CHIEF?

Seeburger Leaves Tomorrow, Administration Lagging on Naming Successor.

tract letting and recommending that the equipment be purchased from a New York firm.

Bids from two radio firms on the apparatus the police department wants were opened two weeks ago today. The next day the mayor, service-safety director, and Bates tentatively agreed to award the contract to the Fred M. Link company of New York, higher of the two bidders.

Before the contract was signed, however, the mayor said he received additional information from the Galvin Manufacturing company of Chicago which qualified it for the contract at $253 less than the New York firm asked.

Further investigation by Bates revealed that the Chicago firm was not licensed to sell the type of radio the police department wants and did not quote prices on the type of cruiser transmitters called for in the specifications, the police chief said.

Bates said in his letters today that, in his opinion, only the New York firm is eligible to receive the order despite its higher bid.

"I hope we can get our new radio by Christmas," commented Bates who had planned to have the equipment installed by late summer.

Fire Chief Seeburger's resignation, effective Wednesday, makes it imperative that an acting chief be named by the service-safety director to coordinate the fire department's activities.

Capt. Leroy Zimmerman at Central station has been handling department dealings without authority from the city administration since Seeburger started his vacation two weeks ago.

"Somebody has to take charge, and I'd like to know how I stand," said Zimmerman. "I'm not going to assume full authority until I have instructions in writing from the service director."

Second Tin Can Collection To Be Next Month

The second city-wide collection of tin cans will get under way in Mansfield about the middle of September, L. L. Linham superintendent of the garbage department, said today.

Linham urged city residents to save their cans and process them by removing both ends and the wrappers and mashing the cans flat.

The next collections will be conducted like the one last spring, he said. City trucks will visit every ward to collect bright, processed cans that are placed in containers at the curb. Condensed milk cans, lacquered containers, and rusty cans are of no value in tin salvage and will not be collected, Linham said.

CONDUCT WENTZ RITES THURSDAY

SHELBY—Funeral services for Charles Burton Wentz, 75, who died Monday at his home west of Plymouth, will be held from the Barkdull funeral home Thursday afternoon.

A former resident of Shelby, Mr. Wentz had been living near Plymouth for the past 10 years.

Survivors include his widow, Margaret; three daughters, Mrs. Clara Sponseller and Mrs. Paul Russell of Plymouth, and Mrs. Fay Kauffman of Ashland; also two sons, Clyde of Fort Sheridan, Ill., and Norman of Torrington, Conn.; 14 grandchilren and five great-grandchildren.

CITY DETECTIVES CAPTURE ONE FUGITIVE, SEARCH FOR ANOTHER

Mansfield detectives broke even today in their hunt for two fugitives from Ohio penal institutions.

A 21-year-old Ohio State reformatory inmate was still at large after he walked away from the institution's dairy barn at 1:30 a. m. today and a 17-year-old escapee from Lancaster Boys Industrial school was captured while he was sleeping in a truck at the G. L. Rogers trucking agency on Park avenue east.

City detectives were searching today for Russell Bagley, admitted to the reformatory July 2, 1941 from Stark county on a breaking and entering conviction. Detectives Lee Remy and Oscar Krupp found the coat of Bagley's prison uniform at a West Fourth street residence about 8 a. m. today. The detectives expressed the belief that the escaped fugitive intended to steal a car from that residence but was probably scared away by residents of the neighborhood.

The 17-year-old Lancaster fugitive was being held by city police for authorities from that institution.

PAYING UP

Garbage Patrons Make Record Payments on Accounts.

With city garbage bills for the next three months due Wednesday, Fred Lingafelter, secretary of the garbage and water departments, said today that the collection already has exceeded any in the history of the department.

Receipts to noon Saturday totaled more than $6,500 of the $11,000 due for the quarter beginning Sept. 1. Collections so far this week have not been totaled, but Lingafelter said they would push the total well ahead of any previous collection.

"We are usually lucky if half of the total bill is paid by the deadline," he said.

Preparation of the delinquent list will be started after tomorrow and service will be discontinued in cases where the bills are not paid by Sept. 1.

FALLS TO DEATH

Prominent Ohio Horsewoman Plunges From Neil House.

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—Mrs. Eleanor Beatric Long, 32, prominent Ohio horsewoman and wife of Eli Long, owner of the White Star farm at Delaware, plunged to her death today from the sixth floor of the Neil House, shortly after noon.

It was not determined whether she had fallen or had jumped, police said. The screen on the window in the room was broken, police said.

Her husband was in the hotel at the time of the accident, but was not in the room. He told police he had been married to Mrs. Long since 1940. Mrs. Long had exhibited her gaited saddle horses throughout Ohio and in several national horse shows.

ASKS RECEIVER FOR COLONIAL

Suit Filed Against Trustees of Finance Company.

LIMA—(INS)—Removal of liquidating trustees of the Colonial Finance company, and the appointment of a receiver to complete the liquidation, was asked today in a suit filed in Allen county common pleas court by Shareholder Bert Schlesinger of Cleveland.

The company which liquidated last December in view of the uncertain future of firms whose major busines was in automotive loads, was reorganized by members of the old firm.

Schlesinger charged the liquidating trustees with selling 8,575 shares of stock in the National bank of Lima for $16.50 a share to the newly organized company despite the fact that he had obtained a buyer who offered $20 a share for stock.

JOINS FORCE

GALION — Announcement was made here Monday of the 90-day provisional appointment of George Cook as regular patrolman on the police force.

Cook is a brother of Frank Cook, retired chief of the police department, has been employed as a welder at the Galion Metallic Vault company. He resigned last Tuesday as city councilman of the Second ward.

OPTIMISTIC

Rotary Speaker Sees Vast New Fields After War.

An optimistic view of America's post-war future was presented at today's meeting of the Mansfield Rotary club by David A. Stewart, manager of the savings department of Central National bank, Cleveland.

With "Mental Attitudes in Wartime" as his subject, Stewart advised cheerful acceptance of necessary restrictions and readjustment of living habits.

"If mental attitudes are right," he said, "health will improve as a result of food restrictions, increased walking and changes in other habits. More time is also being given to getting better acquainted with family and friends."

Of first importance, he said, is to win the war, after which vast fields of opportunity will open in the United States for unexampled progress.

Dr. W. J. Acomb was program chairman of the meeting, at which Howard Gongwer, president of the club, presided. Group singing was directed by LeMoine Derr, with Earl Black as pianist.

Draws Up Final Plans For Taft's Visit Here Sept. 2

Final plans for the visit Senator Robert A. Taft will pay Mansfield Sept. 2 were made last night at a meeting of the Richland county Republican executive committee.

Taft is scheduled to arrive here in the afternoon following a luncheon speaking engagement at Mt. Gilead.

Ralph Hardy, executive committee chairman, said today Taft would meet with his constituents at a reception from 4 to 6 p. m. at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Later he will address a joint meeting of the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs and at 7:30 will speak before the Ohio Senior Golf association at Westbrook Country club.

An open forum discussion, similar to that conducted by Congressman J. Harry McGregor here last month, will be held in the common pleas courtroom at the courthouse at 8:15 p. m.

TAKEN BY DEATH AT AGE OF 83

Ashland Resident Dies at Home of Daughter.

ASHLAND — Rebecca Creveling, 83, died today at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Lucille McKibber in nearby Hayesville.

Born in Greenville, O., she lived in Ashland most of her life.

She is survived by two daughters, Mrs. McKibber, and Mrs. Zora Creveling and a son, Weldon Creveling, all of Ashland. Other survivors are eight grandchildren, 13 great grandchildren, and four great great grandchildren.

The body is at the Dembow-Bear funeral home, pending funeral arrangements.

CITY TO MAKE $10,000 WAR BOND PURCHASE

Board Votes Investment While Mayor Warns Against Tie-Up of Finances.

The Mansfield investment board today had voted to put $100,000 more of city funds in war bonds despite an admonition from Mayor W. J. Locke, member of the board, to "be very careful in making an investment of any city funds that might tie them up."

The mayor, who did not attend the meeting yesterday, sent the board a letter in which he pointed out that the proposed airport expansion project and city employes' request for pay increases would place heavy demands on city's finances. The city will have $200,000 in government bonds after this investment is made.

City Auditor Paul Kelley, also a member of the investment board, explained at the meeting that $70,000 of the approximately $100,000 the city already has invested in bonds will be due Dec. 1 and the city will have "adequate funds to take care of all its obligations and projects being considered by council."

The city's spare funds this time will be placed in government certificates of indebtedness, bearing seven-eighths of one per cent interest and payable Sept. 1, 1944. The bonds will be dated Sept. 15, 1943, enabling the county war bond committee to figure them in the county's $6,066,000 bond quota for September.

The city auditor told the investment board that the city has a cash balance of more than $380,000, more than enough to meet the operating expenses and obligations at any one period.

Members of the investment board include three Democratic city officials and Mayor Locke, a Republican. The mayor, however, has no vote. Other members, besides the mayor and auditor, are City Solicitor Leslie K. Wagner and City Treasurer Earle K. Troll.

Councilman C. N. Shultz, the other Republican member, resigned several months ago.

ILLNESS FATAL

John Marlotte Taken By Death In Michigan.

Word was received here today by Mrs. Boyd Robinson, 187 South Foster street, of the death of her cousin, John Marlotte.

The former Mansfield resident died at his home in Royal Oak, Mich., following a lingering illness.

He is survived by his wife, a son, Robert, and a brother, Frank Marlotte, pastor of the Trinity Lutheran church in Minneapolis, Minn.

Funeral services will be conducted in Royal Oak Thursday.

PAINLESS BIRTH CALLED A MYTH

ST. LOUIS —(INS)— Although some success has been achieved, the medical profession has not yet discovered a completely painless, completely trustworthy method of childbirth, according to opinions expressed at the convention of the Missouri Medical association in St Louis recently.

Dr. Paul Lorhan of Kansas City, Kan., in a discussion of methods of caudal anesthesia, or anesthesia of the lower part of the body through injection in the extremity of the spine, said that method "seems to fill the need" for painless delivery.

RECOVERY MOVE BRIGHTENS UP STOCK MARKET

However Many Leaders Stay In Losing Division of Early Trading.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Fractional recoveries appeared here and there in today's early stock market proceedings but many leaders continued in the losing division.

Improved at a quiet opening were Anaconda, General Motors, General Electric, Paramount Pictures, Texas Co., United Aircraft and Ohio Oil. Minor declines were posted for U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Johns-Manville, Southern Railway and Kennecott.

Attention was given the preliminary estimate of the Federal Reserve bank of New York indicating department store sales in the Metropolitan district during the week ended Aug. 21 were 3 per cent above the aggregate in the comparable 1942 period. For the week concluded Aug. 14 there was a year-to-year recession of 2 per cent.

CHICAGO—(AP)—Grain trade was somewhat more active today and prices of all grains were fractionally higher in early transactions.

Rye was in demand and started unchanged to ½ cent higher than yesterday's close, September $1.00 ⅝-¾, wheat was ⅛-⅝ up, September $1.44 ⅜-½.

THEATERS

"The McGuerins."

Hollywood's famed Uplifters club, located in the heart of the Santa Monica canyon, serves as a Connecticut health farm in Hal Roach's "McGuerins From Brooklyn," now showing at the Park. The Uplifters club, which has been a landmark in the cinema for more than 20 years, and during that time more than 4,000 pictures have been filmed there. The story highlights the breezy adventures of two Brooklyn cab drivers, who have made a fortune and have become two reckless, moneyed men.

"We Are the Marines."

The FBI served as a part time casting office for the March of Time's "We Are the Marines," the full-length feature film playing at the Ritz. The picture, produced in collaboration with the Marine corps, is wholly peopled with real leather-necks. In continuity sequences though, Japs were needed. They were furnished on order by the FBI. The film is a 20th Century-Fox release.

"Bombardier."

Anne Shirley, whose popularity grows each time she appears on the screen, is the heroine of RKO's Air Force drama, "Bombardier," which co-stars Pat O'Brien and Randolph Scott as a pair of army fliers. It is now at the Madison. As the secretary to the former, Miss Shirley plays a prominent part in the story. A night bombing forms the climax, as a squadron of Flying Fortresses raid Tokyo.

"Dixie."

In the picture "Dixie," an army of make-up men were needed to apply burnt cork to the minstrels and keep it touched up in the right places. To simplify application, it was mixed with glycerin and rubbed on. Dorothy Lamour and Marjorie Reynolds play the leading feminine roles in "Dixie" and they were happy that the old time minstrel shows were exclusively male, feeling that on them burnt cork would not be particularly becoming. "Dixie" is now playing at the Ohio.

QUEBEC PLAN: MIGHTY BLOW AGAINST JAPS

FDR, Churchill Promise Air, Sea, Land Attacks Will Be Executed Soon.

out of the military operations."

The statement also disclosed that the question of recognition of the French national committee for liberation had been on the agenda and that announcements from a "good many" governments on this point could be expected sometime late this week.

British and American leaders will hold another similar conference before the end of this year, the announcement said, "in addition to any tripartite meeting which it may be possible to arrange with Soviet Russia."

Then clearly saying that Russia has no part in Allied plans for the Pacific, the statement continued: "Full reports of the decisions so far as they affect the war against Germany and Italy will be furnished to the Soviet government."

The two leaders said that "the whole field of world operations" was surveyed in "the light of many gratifying events."

Mr. Roosevelt pointed out that plans reached at their Casablanca conference last January had just become apparent in Tunis and Sicily. Mindful that he and Churchill had met last May in Washington, the president said he thought it could be assumed that other plans were about to be developed—a statement that generally was accepted as meaning activities, because at several other points in the talk they spoke of action soon.

Churchill said the armed forces of Great Britain and the United States were more closely united than any armies of different countries in history.

Because the emphasis of the Quebec conference was on the defeat of Japan Churchill said there was no call for representation by others than belligerents against the Japanese.

Later, Churchill paid high tribute to the Russian drive against the German army. With the activities of plans reached here and in past meetings and in the future, Great Britain and the United States will be able, he said, to bring the whole of their weight to bear. This combined with the powerful operations of Russia, "should give us," he added, "the very best means for releasing the suffering, Axis-oppressed peoples of the world."

Because the Allies are engaged in a life and death struggle, Churchill said, speaking informally, it is impossible to talk in detailed terms, but he added that very good conclusions had been reached here. Any difference between the conference here involved priority and emphasis, he said, but there was nothing but complete unanimity of principle.

Greater steps, he added, were being taken to bat down our antagonists one after another.

Canadian Prime Minister W. L. MacKenzie King also participated in the press conference.

Without qualification, Churchill said, that our forces meaning apparently Great Britain and the United States — were better armed, better equipped and superior in weapons to the enemy; that the German submarine warfare against Allied shipping had rolled over from the debit to the credit side of the war ledger; that Allied shipping was mounting every day in volume.

Spread wide the feeling of confidence, he added, waving his arms for emphasis and looking around the large group. That is how, he said, you can play your part along with the others in winning the war.

Mr. Roosevelt followed Churchill in addressing the reporters, who were not permitted to ask questions, and played on the life-and-death struggle theme started by the prime minister. He said that while things were progressing much better, there still was much long, hard fighting ahead.

That fact, said the president, makes it necessary for full-shouldered support of the war effort by all peoples of the United Nations, particularly those who make the things the armies and navies and air forces use in seeking victory.

Churchill muttered, hear, hear.

The president spoke of a series of recent successes and charted the vast improvement in the Allied position since he and Churchill conferred in Washington in June, 1942, in what he described as the dark days of Tobruk. The plans made then were activated in November, 1942, with the invasion of North Africa. Then he told how their meeting at Casablanca produced the Tunisian and Sicilian campaigns.

The president cited that series of events to support the assumption which he, himself, had offered: That another big Allied move is about to be disclosed. Both he and Churchill stressed, however, that the disclosure would come only with action and destruction of the enemy. Nor would they give any hint as to its general locale.

GOES TO PARLEY

Dr. A. O. Fonkalsrud, superintendent at General hospital, will attend the American Hospital association meeting at Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 13 through 17, he announced today.

Knox At Quebec Parley

MANSFIELD NEWS IN BRIEF

Picnic Wednesday — Employes of the Barnes Manufacturing company will hold their annual picnic tomorrow at North Lake park beginning at 1 p. m., it was announced today.

Charge Dismissed—An assault and battery charge against Silas Brooks, colored, Mansfield, was dismissed today in municipal court at the request of Naomi Ann Johnson, colored, who filed the complaint.

Club to Have Picnic—Kiwanis club members will be entertained at a picnic Thursday at the Friendly House camp, three miles southeast of Mansfield. A program of sports events has been arranged and will begin at 4 p. m.

Meets Thursday — The house committee of the Y. W. C. A. will meet Thursday at 10 a. m. at the Y. W. C. A. The group will prepare a budget to cover upkeep of the building necessary equipment for the coming year. Mrs. F. J. Kelly is chairman.

Driver Fined — Richard Earl Hammond, 312 West Third street, was fined $10 and costs in municipal court today after he pleaded guilty to a charge of speeding. He was arrested by state highway patrolmen on U. S. Route 42 northeast of the city.

J. A. C. Plans Outing—Members and their guests of the Junior Association of Commerce will hold their annual outing Wednesday beginning at 5:30 p. m. at the country home of Carl Horchler, Lexington road. Boyd Crall, in charge of arrangements, announced today.

Suffers Arm Injury — Joan Shriner, 15, of 42 State street, was bitten on the left wrist yesterday afternoon by a neighbor's dog which was fighting with the Shriner's dog in the yard at the girl's home. The animal which attacked the girl was ordered tied for 10 days.

Held to Jury—Cleveland Fair, colored, 271 North Franklin avenue, was held to the county grand jury today under $1,000 bond after he pleaded innocent in municipal court to a charge of cutting with intent to wound Fred Patterson, colored, of the same address.

Taken by Death—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cook, 507 Howard street, have returned from North Olmsted where they were called by the death of their brother-in-law Louis Ossing, who died Sunday. Mrs. Ossing is the former Miss Nell Cook of Shelby. Both Mr. and Mrs. Ossing were well known in Mansfield.

Training Meeting—Third in the series of officers' training meetings for cabinet members of the Beta Gamma of the Y. W. C. A. will be held Wednesday at 7:30 p. m. The discussion will center on why young people meet in a group, what a group experience means to the individual and what a group means in the light of the community.

License Revoked — Municipal Judge H. H. Schettler today fined William Slisher, Mansfield, R. D. 1, $50 and costs and revoked his driver's license for one year when Slisher pleaded guilty to a charge of driving while under the influence of alcohol. Slisher's car hit the end of a bridge on the Lexington-Springmill road early Sunday, injuring Andrew Pfeifer, 70, a passenger in the car.

Treated at Hospital — Beulah Petroff, waitress in a North Main street cafe, was treated at General hospital last night for a severe cut on the left side of her head. She told police a man, whose name she couldn't remember, struck her on the head with a broken beer bottle at the restaurant. She returned to her home after receiving treatment.

Finds "Stolen" Car—Reported stolen Sunday night from North Adams street near Park avenue east, a car owned by Edward Duvall, 181 Sturges avenue, was located by police yesterday on North Foster street, just three blocks away. Duvall said he left the car on Adams street Sunday and it was gone when he went back for it Monday morning.

Car Inspection Program Launched By Westinghouse

"Have your car checked and send the bill to Westinghouse."

That's what Westinghouse employes are being told as the industrial relations department launches a far-reaching automobile conservation program.

With a national car mortality of 7,000 cars a day and new car manufacture out of the picture, Westinghouse industrial relations officials said today they had assumed the job of keeping their employes' cars on the road as long as possible.

After obtaining proper forms for the free inspection, the employe takes his car to the garage or service station of his choice for a bumper to bumper check-up.

The plan provides for twice-yearly inspection of cars with A ration cards and thrice-yearly for cars with B or C ration cards. Inspection includes lights, wheels, brakes, ignition, chassis and tires. Repair or following other recommendations of the inspection is left entirely with the car owner.

Included among the garages and service stations certified for making the inspection are 15 in Mansfield and stations in Ashland, Shelby, Loudonville, Galion, Mt. Vernon, Lexington, Bellville, and Crestline.

RAF 'HAMBURGS' BERLIN WITH GIANT ATTACK

fire but of stern opposition from German fighter planes.

"The Germans put up swarms of fighters," said one. "I have never seen so many before. There were about 20 belts of searchlights inside the capital and around it. These were cooperating with the fighters.

"We streaked across the beams as fast as we could, and the searchlights came after us. Fights were going on all over the place."

Airmen pictured the German capital as a red chaos of smoke columns from fires and explosions, shining dully even at 15,000 feet.

They said German fighters rode the skies in "desperation squadrons," some of them flying with navigation lights on.

The biggest explosions were seen in the middle of Berlin, the fliers reported.

The Nazis first said 50 raiding planes were shot down, but shortly raised that to 60, saying they were "mostly four-engine bombers."

The attack had been expected for several weeks as logical followup to the mass bombings which pulverized the German seaport of Hamburg in July. The last heavy raid on Berlin was staged by the RAF March 29, when 21 bombers were lost.

The German capital has been a target since that time for small forces of British Mosquito bombers, which have struck at the city eight times—the first time on May 19 and the most recent last Thursday night.

The German radio said last night's attack on Berlin caused civilian casualties and damage in residential quarters. Several other places were attacked in addition to the capital, said the broadcast.

The night attack on Berlin was preceded by a daylight raid by American medium bombers on St. Omer, 22 miles southeast of Calais, France, where they blasted at the freight yards and a German flying field.

Meanwhile the Germans attempted feeble retaliation. Sporadic enemy activity was reported last night over coastal districts of east Anglia and five Nazi planes were downed. Slight damage but no casualties were reported.

Declare Emergency In 6 Danish Towns

NEW YORK—(AP)—A state of emergency has been declared in six Danish towns by German occupation officials in an effort to combat a wave of sabotage climaxed in the last few hours by the theft of several thousand rifles from a Nazi arsenal and the destruction of a power plant, a British broadcast recorded by the United States broadcast intelligence service said today.

The British broadcast quoted a report from the Stockholm paper Svenska Dagbladet. The power station destroyed, the broadcast said, provided current for the entire northeast Jutland.

Push Within 2 Miles of Japs at Salamaua

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC—(AP)—Australian troops, emerging into the Francisco river valley after months of mountain fighting, probed the enemy's prepared defenses today within two miles of the Salamaua, New Guinea, airdrome.

Today's communique from Gen. Douglas MacArthur reported the Australians crossed the river northeast of Old Bobdubi to a position due west of the air strip.

It also disclosed that for the first time the guns of Allied warships have been brought into play in the showdown battle for northeastern New Guinea. Monday night, light warships, probably destroyers, moved more than 70 miles above Salamaua into the narrow part of Dampier strait for a close range bombardment of the dock and supply dumps at Finschhafen on the Huon peninsula.

Reds Chase Nazis On Two Fronts

LONDON —(AP)— The victorious Russian army drove beyond fallen Kharkov in pursuit of the retreating Germans today while 200 miles to the southeast Soviet forces were reported streaming through a break in the Nazi lines on the lower Donets river front.

The twin drives threatened the whole southern wing of the German defenses anchored on the Sea of Azov and apparently were part of a master plan to free the immense industrial area in the Donets basin from the grip of the invaders.

A Russian communique broadcast from Moscow last night said the Red army troops which stormed into Kharkov yesterday from the east, north, and west paused only long enough to gather up large stores of Nazi war materiel and then turned west in the direction of the Ukrainian capital of Kiev and the main German defense line along the west bank of the Dnieper river.

ACCUSED GIRL FREE ON BOND

Waives Hearing on Charge of Slaying Father, Brother.

BURLINGTON, Ky.—(AP)—Pretty Jo Ann Kiger was free on $25,000 bond today following a surprise move in which she waived the preliminary hearing on charges of murdering her father and brother.

The auburn-haired school girl, who marked her 16th birthday Saturday in the Boone county jail, has steadfastly denied she shot her father, Carl C. Kiger, 49, Covington city commissioner, and her youngest brother, Jerry, 6, as they slept in their summer home near Devon, Ky., early last Tuesday.

200 FATHERS FACING DRAFT

County Boards Made Estimate as Hershey Predicts Call For 446,000 In U. S.

this national officials will be able to determine which states and counties have the necessary pool of men, and will regulate quota accordingly, local officials believe.

All three boards said today their supply of available men is getting low, but they will complete the call for single men, married men without children, and men with collateral dependents before dipping into the reserve of pre-Pearl Harbor fathers.

With a congressional review of the entire subject expected son after the lawmakers return Sept. 14, Hershey told local draft boards they were expected to supply the amount of fathers needed between Oct. 1 and Jan. 1.

This would give congress little more than two weeks to act. Preliminary steps, however, already have been taken. Pending before the senate, bearing an okay from its military committee, is a measure to ban induction of the pre-Pearl Harbor fathers until after Jan. 1.

In letters to local draft boards explaining the reasons behind the decision to draft fathers, Hershey reported that 907,000 men would have to be inducted in the last three months of the year, bringing the total for the last half of 1943 to 1,873,000.

He said that total would be filled from these sources: An estimated 783,000 physically qualified now in Class 1-A; 644,000 from those reclassified from 4-F and those becoming 18 years old, with the estimated 446,000 deficiency coming from the father group.

Broken down, his figures would mean induction for seven out of every 100 fathers since he listed the total number of them in non-agricultural work of draft age (18 through 37) at 6,559,000. Possibly as many as 21 in every 100 may be sent to induction centers, but many are likely to be rejected as not physically qualified.

Meanwhile today draft board officials emphasized the fact that youths becoming 18 should register with the draft board having jurisdiction in the district in which they live on their birthday.

If their 18th birthday falls on Sunday or a holiday, they should register on the following day. Those in doubt as to where they should register are to inquire at the nearest board.

Mystery Solved, Welles Just On Maine Vacation

WASHINGTON — (INS) — The mysterious absence from Washington of Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles was partially solved today when it was learned that he is vacationing at his Bar Harbor, Me., estate.

But the absence of the suave under-secretary of state at a critical juncture in Anglo-American relations with Soviet Russia over the question of a second front in western Europe was heightened by persistent reports in the capital of an impending shake-up within the state department high command.

Reports persisted in official quarters that conservative southern Democratic leadership within the Roosevelt administration, headed by Secretary of State Cordell Hull, had won a major victory over more liberal elements in the conduct of American foreign affairs.

According to these reports, Welles is expected to be succeeded as under secretary of state by conservative Assistant Secretary Breckinridge Long.

mitted it was "a little bit quiet" here and that he was itching to get back into action.

His leave will be up next week and he will report at New River, N. C. He hopes for a chance to get into Europe the next time. He wants a crack at the Nazis.

He's seen a lot of the Japs in the past year and a half and he respects them as fighters. But he doesn't think they are "supermen."

He was on shore duty on Dec. 7, 1941 when the first Jap bombers came over Pearl Harbor. He spent a busy few hours, but he summed them up briefly:

"I thought at first it was the air force on maneuvers," he related. "But when I saw the Red ball on the planes I knew I was wrong."

Sgt. Kaehler, who spent 30 months in Shanghai before going to Pearl Harbor knew what the rising sun insignia meant.

He said he helped to round up his outfit to man machine guns get back into action, that they "got a few."

Kaehler took part in seven major marine engagements in the southwest Pacific, chief among them being the battle to retain the Midway islands and the fight for Guadalcanal.

He related that the fighting on Guadalcanal was intense but that marines had been trained particularly in jungle warfare and were more than a match for the Japs.

He has pieces of fuselege from a Zero fighter plane and a German Foucke-Wulf which the Japs used in the early stages of the Pacific campaign. The planes were brought down by anti-aircraft.

He has several pieces of Nipponese currency he took from the bodies of Japanese soldiers he had killed. He wouldn't say how many of the enemy he had accounted for, but did admit that he had "several notches" on his gun.

Sgt. Kaehler in his 12 years of travel with the marines has never been in Japan but he hopes to see Tokyo some day.

IT'S A FLOP

British Declare Nazi 'Secret Weapon' No Good.

LONDON—(INS)—If the vaunted new German "secret weapon" is the rocket bomb fired from Nazi intercepting planes during the recent American Flying Fortress raid on Regensburg, it is a flop, the London Daily Mail declared today.

The bombs were fired 25 at a time at a range of 2,500 yards.

There is nothing new or mysterious about such a weapon, which is a development of a Russian idea. The British Royal Air Force tried it out but discarded it, preferring ordinary cannon for fighter planes in night or day combat.

British Can See Puffs Of Smoke During Desultory Attack.

LONDON—(U.P.)—German artillery on the French coast shelled southeast England today.

The shelling began at 10:50 a. m., and continued on a desultory basis for some time. In the first half hour or so, only half a dozen shells came across the Straits.

The French coast was clearly visible. Even the clock tower of Calais could be seen. Observers on the coast saw the puffs of smoke as the German guns were fired.

tor planes were directed not to defend the capital.

Stefani added that the Italian government had asked "the Swiss government and the Holy See to notify the governments of London and Washington that the Italian government had adopted the following measures:

"Defensive installations of the city of Rome have been put out of action and the order has been given to the anti-aircraft batteries not to open fire and to the fighters not to operate over Rome.

"The transfer of the Italian and German commands as well as troops is under way so that only a garrison charged with the maintenance of public order will be left in the city.

"The railway center of Rome will no longer be used for military transport or for entraining and retraining of troops. It will thus be a simple transit line. Preparations are being made for the transfer of military installations and of arms and munitions factories out of the city."

There was no immediate information as to whether the latest communication from Italy had been officially received by British authorities.

Zero Hour Believed At Hand For Italy

LONDON — (U.P.) — The zero hour for the Allied invasion of Italy appeared at hand today following the arrival of huge reinforcements at Mediterranean bases and a prediction by Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery that his Eighth army would attack "very soon."

Mighty Allied aerial armadas had softened southern Italy's defenses and communications and Premier Marshal Pietro Badoglio apparently had decided to fight it instead of accepting an Allied offer of an "honorable," though unconditional, peace.

Montgomery's prediction of an imminent attack was made in the course of a talk to Canadian troops, according to the Eighth Army News, which is published in Catania, Sicily.

"We shall very soon be attacking, I expect," he said. "Wherever I go, I would like to have you with me."

The plan of Allied attack against Italy naturally has not been disclosed, but it is assumed it will follow the general lines of the assault against Sicily, though on a considerably larger scale. Likewise, strategists agree that it probably will not be confined solely to the narrow Messina strait, where the Axis has massed a huge concentration of artillery.

Fail to Challenge Raiders at Naples

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA —(U.P.)— Allied bomber fleets have hammered two more key railway points near Naples without meeting a single Axis defender, while U. S. Liberators sweeping in from the Middle East struck Bari on the southeastern coast, downing 14 enemy planes in a blazing air battle, it was announced today.

None of the Liberators was lost.

No enemy fighters rose to challenge U. S. medium Mitchells slamming a load of bombs by daylight into Battipaglia, south of Naples, nor British Wellingstons that pounded Bagnoli in Naples' environs before dawn today.

American Warhawks had a similar experience of no opposition in a sweep over Sardinia and a sharp raid upon enemy barracks and factory buildings at Cagliari.

LONDON — (INS) — A Budapest radio broadcast reported today by Reuter's said the United States and Great Britain have agreed "in principle" to declaration of Rome as an open city.

The British news agency said the broadcast quoted a Rome correspondent as saying American and British replies to Italian Marshal Pietro Badoglio's plea to spare Rome from further bombings, received at the Vatican, demanded a Vatican guarantee that military objectives would be removed from the capital and that a neutral commission be appointed to control demilitarization of the city.

There has been no announcement by London or Washington.

company, and the transportation of war materials.

Dr. Thomas secured information as to the number and location of certain plants of the Western Electric company in Ohio manufacturing war materials.

Grace Buchanan-Dineen secured information as to the production capacity of the Ford Motor company in manufacturing war material, the safety of construction of such plant against sabotage, the safety of construction of the plants against air plane attack and bombing and the operation of the United States by which military airplanes departed from this country for the war theater.

The justice department said the arrests were the first under the war-time espionage statutes, which provide a death penalty or up to 30 years imprisonment. Previous espionage arrests were made under peace time statutes, which did not provide the death penalty.

Hoover said the activities of the group since this country's entry into the war centered about Grace Buchanan, described as an "attractive, well educated descendant of French nobility, who, though a native of Canada, had been carefully trained by Germans in espionage work."

Hoover said she entered the United States on Oct. 27, 1941, arriving in New York by Atlantic clipper. She first came to the attention of the FBI, Hoover said, as a mysterious "Miss Smith of Detroit," in November, 1941.

Subsequently, Hoover added, she "cooperated fully with the FBI in receiving information desired by the German espionage service when it became apparent to her that she could not carry out the instructions of her Nazi employers."

Hoover said she had operated under the surveillance of the FBI, and all information reported to her and forwarded to her Nazi espionage superiors abroad had cleared through the FBI, and army and navy intelligence services.

FUEL and HEATING COSTS by INSULATING YOUR HOME . . .

Proper insulation means cooler homes in summer and warmer homes in winter. It also pays big dividends in FUEL SAVINGS. With our nation at war this becomes vitally important. Conservation of all fuels for war production has become a wartime necessity. Fuel MUST be conserved. Insulation will help do it, as will storm windows, caulking and weatherstripping. From 33 to 50 per cent fuel saving can be obtained in your home by the inclusion of these features. In a few seasons these fuel savers pay back your investment in them through lower fuel bills and your home is more comfortable. Why not investigate these improvements? If your home does not already enjoy the convenience of automatic gas heating, you'll have to wait until after the war to install it. But you can reduce heat loss now in whatever fuel you may be using . . . by proper insulation. When restrictions are lifted and gas becomes available for new heating installations we'll be glad to talk with you about changing over to this modern, carefree method of heating.

HELL AND HIGH WATER

By William McLeod Raine

SYNOPSIS

Bob Lee, youthful cowboy on the J A B ranch in the Indian Territory before Oklahoma became a state, arouses the enmity of a Territory bootlegger by pouring out his stock at a Nation's barn dance at Cale Station and gets deeper into a death-provoking situation by protecting his boss' daughter, Willie May Broderick, from dancing with a bleary-eyed member of the Hickory gang, lawflouting ex-Texans who had recently come into the region. Cleburn Hightower, full-blooded Choctaw Indian and close friend of of Lee, further complicates the setup in going to the aid of Jessie MacPherson, his sweetheart, when the latter was flung to the floor by a drunken member of the outlaw gang. The Indian knocks the outlaw to the ground in an angry melee outside the dance barn and Bob Lee is challenged to settle his account. Hiram Sugg, Willie May's fiance who brought her to the dance, breaks up the milling struggle by a pointed plea to reason that the night was not the time nor the place for the Hickorys to get revenge for their wounded pride. The gang leaves vowing vengeance upon Bob Lee and Hightower.

Lee is advised to go back to his native Texas but refuses to leave the ranch under the shadow of the Hickory's vows.

CHAPTER III

Four J A B men were burning a fire guard. Two furrows had been plowed by mule teams along a strip twenty feet wide. A cowboy rode this inclosed space dragging a blazing gunny-sack soaked with kerosene through the tall grass. The others followed with water-saturated sacks beating out the flames whenever they jumped the furrow. Close at hand a wagon conveyed a water barrel to keep the flails wet.

One of the fire-fighters stopped to wipe the perspiration from his face with the sleeves of his shirt. He thumbed toward a mover's outfit jolting across the prairie:

"Another nester drifting in to starve."

The man to whom he had spoken turned his blackened grimy face toward the scarecrow team, a buckskin mule and a white mare. "I'd say he had done right smart starving already," a dismounted rider hazarded.

The imigrant, a slight fellow with a pinched face and narrow shoulders, was accompanied by a gaunt woman wearing a poke bonnet and a patched dress. She had a small child on her lap.

"Our baby's sick," said the newcomer, defeat in his discouraged voice. "Where at could I get a doctor?"

Curt Simson scratched his head. "Why, I dunno. Doc Taylor might be at Boggy Depot or he might be at Four Corners.

"Our team's wore out," the mover appeared. "For God's sake, boys, help us get our baby to a doctor."

"Sure we will," Curt answered. "We'll round up Doc Taylor for you. Get that barrel out of the wagon, boys. Cle, you drive these folks to Four Corners. If Doc isn't there have Cal Judson look at the kid. I'll roll along with the strangers' team. It's played out, so don't wait for me."

Hightower tied his horse to the back of the ranch wagon and took the reins. The woman sat beside him, holding the baby. Her husband stood back of the seat.

"Our name is Todd," the mover said.

The Choctaw made no comment. When they reached Four Corners, he untied his mount from the back of the wagon and grounded the reins. Todd was already hurrying to the store. Hightower followed him.

Doctor Taylor was at home, in the frame house a hundred yards from the store. He reassured the worried parents, the child had a high fever due to a stomach upset. He told them to feed him nothing but milk for a day or two and to give him plenty of rest. It would be better for them to stay out in the shady cottonwood grove for the rest of the week. They could turn their weary horses into the doctor's pasture for as long as they liked.

Todd was embarrassed. He had no money, he explained. He would not be able to pay just now for the milk or for the doctor's services. When he got money he would send it back.

"Who the hell wants money?" Doctor Taylor asked gruffly. "Pay me when you get it. And you can get all the milk you want from my wife. How are you off for chuck?"

The imigrant flushed. He said he had plenty, but under the physician's sharp inquiries broke down and admitted he had nothing but some corn meal and molasses.

The doctor glared at him. "No wonder your baby is sick. He's starved. I don't know what you movers mean by coming into the Territory without a nickle back of you. Go to Cal Judson and tell him I said to allow you a ten dollar credit and to charge it to me . . . You don't have to thank me. I'll sock every cowboy who drops in to Four Corners a dollar apiece until I'm paid."

While Hightower gathered wood in the grove to build a fire, four men rode up to the store. They swaggered in, spurs clinking. Cal Judson, the storekeeper, said he was glad to see them. Smilingly he stood back of the counter waiting for them to order. Neither words nor smile rang true. Few citizens were ever glad to see the Hickory gang.

Dyke Sims, the Choctaw beer peddler, was in the store with the trader. The outlaws tossed him a careless greeting. Bart Hickory told him he had better drop round to the ranch the next day with a couple gallons of wet goods.

Sam Hickory moved to the cigar case. "Since you're so dog-goned glad to see us, mebbe you would like to treat us to a cigar apiece, a good one, not one of those cheap stogies you sell to thirty dollars a month cowpokes."

Judson's laugh was forced, but he thought it better not to refuse. From the case he took a box of cigars and held it out to the ruffian. Sam snickered and helped himself to three. His companions followed the example. But when Sims pushed forward the trader pointedly failed to see him and returned the box to its case.

"I ain't met up with such a generous fellow as you since Christmas came on Sunday," sneered Rush Greer, slapping Judson's back hard.

Todd walked hesitantly into the store. He did not like to give the doctor's message before so many strangers. Judson was relieved to see that the attention of the bullies was diverted to the mover. He asked Todd what he could do for him.

"Doctor Taylor says for you to allow me a ten dollar credit and charge it to him," the little man answered, his voice almost a whisper.

"No secrets here among friends," Sam Hickory jeered. "Speak right out in meeting, runt."

Judson tried to ignore the interruption. "That's all right. Doc is good for it. Pick out what supplies you want."

"That's right. Much as you want. Have some good cigars." This was from Cass Hickory, the youngest brother.

"Hell, he wears galluses," Sam scoffed, circling around the newcomer as if he had been a curiosity. "A hightoned gent from the states. Putting on dog."

Todd wished he had not taken off his coat on account of the heat, but after all it was no crime to wear suspenders even if men in this part of the country didn't.

"He looks like a plumb tough character," Bart Hickory contributed. "Don't you fellows get him riled or he'll light on us."

Todd's ears were red, but he pretended not to hear. "I'd like twenty pounds of flour and a ham and a package of coffee. I reckon I'll get the rest tomorrow," he told Judson.

"Go right on buying," Cass urged. "We'll help you. "Give him a gallon of molasses in a paper sack, Judson."

"He's fixin to jump us right now," Greer warned in apparent alarm. "Look out, boys."

"I'm sure enough scared of him," the whisky peddler charped in.

Todd had had enough. He turned to leave. "I'll call for the stuff later," he told the storekeeper.

Greer barred the way. "What's yore hurry?" he grinned, showing tobacco-stained teeth above the big red beard. "Don't you like our company?" His haird fingers closed on the scant flesh below the mover's ribs and climped tight.

The little man cried with pain. "My baby's sick. I got to go," he pleaded.

A figure darkened the doorway. Greer's fingers relaxed. As far as the Hickory gang went Todd no longer existed. Cleburn Hightower had walked into the room.

Cass Hickory sat on the counter close to the door. art sat on an unopened barrel of flour, and his brother Sam lounged against a home-made desk farther back in the room. Nearest of them all was Rush Greer, who stood in the middle of the floor staring at Hightower with mouth open.

Sam was the first to speak. "I been waiting for this a right smart time," he said softly.

"I'm not looking for trouble," the Indian said.

"NO?" There was a thread of cruel mirth in Sam's voice. "Well, you done found it, anyhow."

He left the desk and moved forward with catlike smoothness. Greer drew back to give him a clear path. All of the outlaws kept their eyes steadily on Hightower. It was up to Sam to start this.

Hightower considered the odds against him. He could not survive the expected blast. Nor was there any safety in trying to run. He stood there, waiting, face impassive, a brown hand hitched in the belt from which his gun hung.

"I told you how this would be," Sam boasted, his words coming low and thick.

The J A B cowpuncher did not answer. He was as motionless as a statue. His black eyes bored into Sam. The signal would come from him.

"Right damn now I aim to rub you out."

Sam's gun roared. Hightower's .45 spat bullets at Hickory. He saw Cass slide from the counter and get into action. Shreds of smoke drifted across the room. The roar of the guns was continuous. Later Hightower recalled seeing Judson plunging behind a flour barrel and the mover flinging himself back of the big bellied stove.

Cleburn backed toward the door. A slug tore into his shoulder. Another lifted the hat from his head. He saw Sam Hickory sink to the floor. The cowboy raced for his horse, flung himself into the saddle and lifted the animal to a gallop. From the store steps the Hickorys fired after him. Two of them swung to their saddles, but he outdistanced them a mile from town.

OPA GETS WRONG BILLING, SO TAXPAYERS COUGH UP EXTRA $415

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Principally because it gave the Office of Price Administration top billing over the War Food Administration, a government booklet, "Food Fights for Freedom," has been reprinted at a cost of $415.02, officials said today.

The 43-page booklet, designed to promote a government food campaign, carried as credit line on the cover: "Prepared by the Office of Program Coordination, Office of War Information, and Office of Price Administration in cooperation with the War Food Administration."

Al F. Whitman, former New York advertising man who heads all food campaigns for the OWI, said in a memorandum to Palmer Hoyt, head of OWI's domestic branch, that the booklet should have "attributed the program" to OWI and WFA.

"Under ordinary circumstances," he said, "this would have not made a great deal of difference, but this is THE big information program for War Food. I felt there would be a let down among their field people if they got the book with the wrong imprint on the cover.

"In addition, the food advertisers and others whose support we hope to enlist for this program would much prefer to support a war food program than an OPA one."

He said also that "the table of contents was incorrect, as well as the numbering and lettering of some of the sub heads."

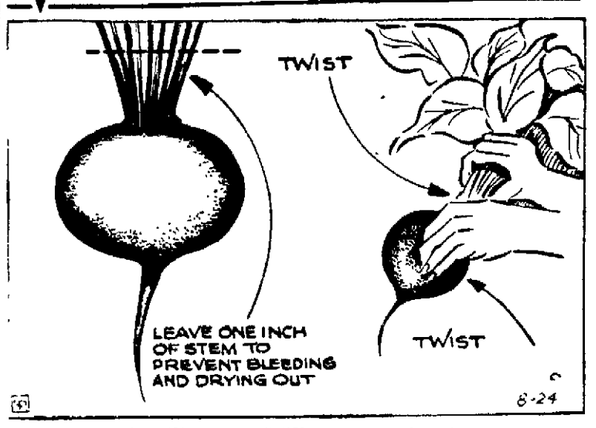
OWI, which had spent $447.80 for 3,875 copies on the first run, had a new supply printed for it at a cost of $145.02. The agriculture department had all its 28,000 copies reprinted for $270, on top of $270 for the erroneous first runs.

OPA stood pat on the 6,000 first run copies it got for $60, and advised it would send them out "as is."

BRAHMA WINS 'PULLET-ZER'

ALBANY, N. Y.—(U.P.)—The local annual prize for the pullet that made the best showing during the past year went to a Brahma hen which had also three separate domestic strains in her make-up. The Brahma hen is a native of China, where they are bred for meat purposes. She won on the strength of a three-quarter-ounce super egg that she laid and the prediction that she would become a 12-pound hen. She is owned by 11-year-old Adelaide Engelking.

Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH



Winter Storage of Victory Garden Beets.

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Released by Central Press.

If you have grown beets in your Victory garden, remember that they have splendid keeping qualities when properly stored.

Beets should be lifted from the garden before the heavy frosts set in, and stored in sand, loam or ashes in a cool, dry, frost-proof place. An outdoor pit, a storage cellar, or even a basement, if it is cool and dry, will be a suitable storage place. Like potatoes, beets must be kept at a temperature between 32 and 38 degrees, Fahrenheit.

There is a right way and a wrong way to remove the tops from beets intended for storage. The accompanying Garden-Graph shows how the leaves should be twisted off, not cut, about one inch above the top of the beet to prevent bleeding and drying out.

Handle beets carefully, since they bleed profusely if bruised or cut, and are then undesirable for use. The same care should be used not to cut beets with the hoe when cultivating them.

BROOKLYN BRIDE MEETS OLD WEST

MILTON-FREEWATER, Ore. —(U.P.)—To Mrs. Joe Bonner of Brooklyn, N. Y., Westerners are awful jokers.

No sooner had she arrived here to join her husband, Pvt. Joe Bonner, who is detailed here from the Walla Walla air base guard, than city and state police and deputy sheriffs nabbed her husband.

They forced the soldier to wheel his bride up and down the streets of this twin city, then brought him before Justice of the Peace George Sanderson, who "fined" Bonner and his wife by making him stand treat for the crowd.

'INSPECTOR OF VENTILATORS' HAS STAFF OF THREE MONKEYS

(By United Press)

OMAHA—Bob Eli, inspector of ventilators (chimney sweep to you) in 46 states, has no draft worries—at least in his immediate staff. For his three chief assistants might well be the living, breathing "See No Evil, Hear No Evil, Speak No Evil" monkeys. They are much too busy cleaning ventilators, chimneys and cooling systems all over the country to get into mischief.

His firm is best known as "Eli and Eli," and the second Eli of the partnership is a singularly intelligent baboon, who shares his responsibility as well as his name.

Bob's monkey employes started working long before the war or the manpower shortage. A competitor was giving him a little trouble about ten years ago, so he bought "Eli," his favorite, and trained her as a publicity stunt to give his business the shot-in-the-arm it needed.

"She's a baboon, just like me," says Bob, as he boasts that Eli learned faster than any human being he ever tried to train.

He says that all monkeys learn fast, and there are ventilators too small even for him, agile gypsy that he is, to crawl into.

Two of the monkeys, Patchy and Bobo, are goldbrickers from way back and it takes the constant surveillance of Eli, the man, and Eli the monkey to keep them on the job. No housewife is more particular than Eli as she goes willingly into the ventilators, does her work and surveys it with pride—let her catch "one of the boys" napping and there's trouble ahead for him.

Right now it's a little hard for her to keep her mind on her job—for she's the mother of a baby baboon—and it's hard for her to leave it during the long working day. Bob's wife says the baby baboon is more trouble than all of her three children and has suggested more than once to her husband that he give Eli a leave of absence until the baby is on its own.

Bob Eli says he's "going to retire next year in my own home back in Indiana—and let someone else clean my chimneys. Twenty-four years in this business is long enough for any man."

He's the 13th son of a gypsy family, born 38 years ago in a covered wagon. He started his business at 14 and now has 78 men working for him—all Gypsies he's trained and schooled in the trade.

CAN TRANSFER PROPERTY

LOS ANGELES, Cal. —(U.P.)— California cities and communities are almost unanimously demanding that the Japanese who are now in re-location centers never be allowed to return to California. California officials are also taking steps to facilitate their staying away. Attorney General Robert W. Kenny has just ruled that the Japanese may legally transfer all of their property out of the state.

WE'RE HAULING 20% MORE FOOD—FOR THE MAN WHO DOESN'T COME TO DINNER

There is an unseen guest at your dinner table these days.

At every meal you are helping to feed him by consuming less food yourself.

This "man who doesn't come to dinner" represents our armed services, lend-lease, and reserves, which together have been allotted 30 per cent of our food production during the next 12 months.

Because total food production has been increased—in spite of his big allotment—your family will receive only about 10 per cent less food per person than consumed last year.

But Erie and other American railroads are faced with the tremendous task of transporting 20% more food than the record-breaking shipments of last year.

For the railroads, this job means the equivalent of one additional carload of food for every five carloads of food previously carried.

It is to the credit of your American railroads that no food shortages so far have been due to their failure to deliver food shipments.

In war, as in peace, the Erie and other railroads will continue to prove that no other transportation can offer such safe, fast, dependable, and economical service.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, TUESDAY, AUGUST 24, 1943.

"If this true spark of civil and religious liberty be kindled, it will burn. Human agency cannot extinguish it. Like the earth's central fire, it may be smothered for a time; the ocean may overwhelm it; mountains may press it down . . . but its inherent and unconquerable force will heave both the ocean and the land and at some time or other, in some place or other . . . the volcano will break out and flame up to heaven."—Daniel Webster.

Psychopaths Retard Reformation

MENTION of the possibility of making use of dormitories outside the Ohio state reformatory wall for some of the psychopathic cases which now lack attention or surveillance, serves to localize this problem to greater extent than heretofore.

In its capacity as a reformatory this Mansfield institution has not been free from psychopathic, feeble-minded and pervert elements among its inmates and it is the mixture of these with other inmates of normal mentality and habits that causes a large part of supervisory worries.

It is estimated by officials that 10 per cent of reformatory population is responsible for 90 per cent of disciplinary requirements and that this 10 per cent is made up almost entirely of illiterate, mentally defective persons, often the product of feeble-minded parents.

In considering the whole problem, as it is being presented in Ohio, it must be deemed unfortunate that such a mixture of relatively normal and obviously sub-normal law violators is necessary, as the purpose of reformation is thus badly hampered.

If, as an emergency measure, it seems advisable to make temporary use of currently unoccupied dormitory space for this purpose, it should be kept clearly in mind by responsible state officials that this would be no more than a makeshift, pending opportunity to develop and carry through plans for sufficient institutions to meet widely varied needs for the care and treatment of mental cases and for the permanent segregation of maniacal psychopaths.

Speeding On the Ashland Road

ARREST of three 'teen age youngsters from Akron for driving a car at 85 miles an hour on Route 42 between here and Ashland Sunday afternoon, serves to direct attention to the extent to which that stretch of road continues as a speedway, despite shortage of gasoline and importance of conserving tires.

Several other arrests for speeding were made by state highway patrolmen on the Mansfield-Ashland road Sunday afternoon, but whatever the number of arrests, they would be but a small percentage of the pleasure-bent motorists who totally disregard the plea to drive at a speed not to exceed 35 miles an hour—and to avoid non-essential driving.

An observer stationed at some vantage point along the Ashland road Sunday afternoon or early evening, noting the steady stream of fast-moving cars flashing in either direction, would have recognized no difference from normal peace times.

There is either need to conserve gasoline and tires, or THERE IS NO SUCH NEED. Those whose responsibility it is to carry on the war say that the need exists. Those who waste gasoline and tires by non-essential driving seem to say that saving gasoline and tires is all hooey. Which are to be believed?

Time To Get Ready for School

BIG BROTHER soldiers and sailors have to take physical examinations to find out whether they are fit to fight. If they've got some little thing the matter with them the army, navy or marine corps doctors find it out and get it fixed. When it's done, either they can fight or do something useful at home.

Children, too, should have their doctors, dentists and oculists look them over before school begins. If they need different food, or little holes filled in teeth, the better to bite food with, or a pair of comfortable glasses, the better to see with, the improvement can be quickly made. How much better a young school-soldier feels when he hasn't any toothache and his eyes aren't all scrunched up with every effort to see, when he's full of pep from the right food instead of dull and not caring much about anything!

After physical exams at camp comes G. I.—the uniforms. Children cannot have everything new this year, but one or two new things will help. Socks or sweater, maybe. New shoes are wonderful, but if No. 18's gone, old shoes can be repaired and given a special shine.

Get yourselves in good shape, young fighters. American fighting men are best because they use their heads. School teaches you how to use yours.

More Shipments From Tropics

MORE COCOA! That is the good news which follows on the heels of reports of conquering the U-boats. Coffee is already flowing in a brown stream from South America. More sugar is here and still more is coming. More bananas are to be in the stores soon, and there will be chocolate for the Christmas candies, if all goes well.

The proviso always to be made. The war is still on, and will be for some time. There is to be no immediate abundance of cocoa or of bananas. The word is only that the tide has turned, trade begins to flow again, and the first trickles will be spreading around in a few months. The mere word that the shortages in these foodstuffs will be no worse is something on which to base hope.

Coulee's Power Increasing

A FOURTH GENERATOR has just gone into action at Grand Coulee dam. This steps up the dam's power capacity to 600,000 kilowatts—and that's enough to supply electricity for a city of three million people.

Boulder dam is still the world's largest hydroelectric plant, but this new generator puts Coulee into second place. Dams of the TVA are farther back in the line, but TVA holds a high place because it has so many of them, and its activities are so ramified.

"Coming events cast their shadows before"—so the War Production Board has authorized a considerable increase in manufacture of baby carriages, walkers, strollers, and sulkies.

Time for Better Understanding With Russia on Postwar Plans

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

IT WOULD be easy to set a lot of mischievous hobgoblins to dancing by speculation over the mysterious replacement of Maxim Litvinoff as Soviet ambassador to the United States, but at the same time it would be a mistake to brush aside such an important development for fear of examining it.

The fact that the unexplained shift of Litvinoff has put in motion a storm of speculation not only in the United Nations but in Germany is in itself proof that the event has some peculiar significance.

This thought is supported by the circumstance of Litvinoff's transfer on the heels of similar action in respect to Ivan Maisky, Russian ambassador in London, who has been called back to Moscow without explanation. These two famous diplomats have been the ranking members of Russia's ambassadorial service.

Allied newspapers and observers, looking at the puzzle from every angle, have found the event disquieting. The Hitlerites, trying to squeeze as much juice out this turnip as possible, have bragged about a row in the enemy camp.

At the same time the Nazis have made an admission which is worth our earnest consideration. That is that all the Big Three—the United States, Britain and Russia—remain hostile to Nazism.

There is no row in the Allied camp, and the Russians are out to crush Hitlerism. However, the widespread speculation and uneasiness in Britain and this country would seem to point clearly to one thing: there is a lack of complete understanding between the Soviet Union and the Western Allies.

Observers generally seem to feel that one of the most likely explanations of the Russian move is that Moscow is taking means of expressing resentment at the fact that the Anglo-American Allies haven't yet opened up that second front for more than a year, and recently the demand has been reiterated frequently.

It's a fair guess that Premier Stalin has resorted to the replacement of his star ambassadors partly as a rebuke to London and Washington. If this is so, it isn't just coincidence that these diplomatic changes come as the Roosevelt-Churchill conference is staged at Quebec.

It strikes me, however, that the thing cuts deeper than the second front. The war is rushing at express-train speed towards the moment when momentous political decisions will have to be made.

New forms of government are to take the place of Fascism and Nazism. There will be a realignment of boundaries in Europe and likely in Africa. All the indications are that Russia is going to demand territorial radjustments.

THIS COLUMN on numerous occasions has pointed out the probability that the Soviet Union will emerge from this war as the dominant power in Europe, and maybe in the Far East as well. Daily she is emphasizing this likelihood by the power of her drive against the tremendous weight of the hun armies.

Berlin admits the abandonment of Kharkov, one of the vital pivotal bases in the Southern wing of the great German battle line. Hitler's whole eastern front is threatened. The Reds are slogging towards Berlin.

That picture certainly calls for an understanding among the Big Three. It calls for a political as well as a military agreement. It calls for prompt action.

What more likely than this is the main reason for Stalin's blunt gesture? He is asking for a tabling of the cards.

Thoughts of a Mansfield Boy On Destroyer In South Pacific

(Editor's Note: From somewhere in the far-off South Pacific comes a letter from Lieut. (j. g.) Thomas Baxter Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Wright, 198 Park avenue west, which gives such clear expression of what is being thought about by men in our fighting forces that it is recommended for general reading, and to be passed along to others who might miss seeing it.

Before entering the navy Lieut. Wright was in the sales promotion and advertising department of Westinghouse. His address is given as: "U. S. S. Ballard, care Fleet Postoffice, San Francisco, Calif.")

July 13, 1943.

Dear Friends in Mansfield:

I am writing this at sea aboard a destroyer in the South Pacific. Today we are encountering an anniversary. I say encounter rather than celebrate for this particular anniversary is of rather dubious nature. The present calendar reading marks a year and a half since myself and my shipmates have viewed our blessed country or experienced the joys and privileges for which we are fighting.

Eighteen months—more by the time this is read—of rolling, pitching, night watches, battle stations and bloodshed. Months filled with longing for our wives, sweethearts, parents and friends. Months of war.

We scan the news with mingled grins and growls. Smiling over our double order of morning ham and eggs as we hear of such mysterious things as ration books and point systems; then frowning as we come to labor trouble strikes and zoot suiters.

We are thrilled by the successes of our fellow fighters in Europe and Africa and hopeful as we begin to close the distance to Tokyo in the Pacific. Normal men reading abnormal news.

Yes, we are normal men. The headliners today were just good downright American boys yesterday and will be the same tomorrow.

The papers say our forces are machines. But no, let us say they are like machines. When we think of a machine we visualize a vast mechanical contrivance consisting of many insensitive parts.

But our American fighting machines are made up with human beings as cogs. They are husbands, sons, next door neighbors. Each is a normal individual with thoughts of peace and home.

I was 22 when last I saw my beloved bride of two months, now I am 24. Today our love burns brighter than ever. But isn't this thing bigger than Kay and I or any group of individuals, yes, even bigger than 132,000,000 people.

What we are fighting for today is not our children, our homes alone. It is for our children's children, their wives and their homes. Today is today but tomorrow is eternity.

I like to think of my participation in this great conflict as a privilege rather than a duty.

For 24 years I have enjoyed the fruits of a democracy for which many brave men have sweated and died. Great Americans have fought and are fighting for the land and blessings you and I take so casually for granted.

And now I am privileged to share in this trust passed along by our forefathers. We all have this trust. Whether it be at the front, on the sea, in the office, factory, home or just buyig War Bonds. May God grant we fulfill this trust.

And so today's anniversary is a symbol. A symbol of one ship's personal inconveniences as characteristic of the sacrifices every citizen is experiencing, and must experience, if this great land of ours is to remain free and continue to prosper.

Let us place our thoughts of victory uppermost in our minds. Let us make the enemy eat crumbs today that our children may have cake tomorrow.

Sincerely,

THOMAS BAXTER WRIGHT,
Lieut. (j. g.) U. S. Navy.

Automobile Need.

Accounts from within the automobile industry report increasing difficulties in supplying cars to persons having priority claims. Share-the-ride cars, used by war workers, are wearing out. Despite price ceilings, usable old cars are said to be bringing absurdly high prices.

In this and several other fields, the effect of shortages in encouraging bootlegging and black markets introduces a factor the war government may be forced to consider. If reports of coming cancelations of war contracts are true, a small part of the auto industry could quickly and easily be devoted to production of enough cars and light trucks of simple types to supply the essential needs. —Detroit News.

Paper Industry's Friend Advises OPA on Newsprint Price Boosts

WASHINGTON—Most people don't know it, but while the Canadian newsprint trust has managed to hike the cost of newsprint again, one of the largest newsprint companies—which will benefit from that raise—has a man right inside the Office of Price Administration. The OPA had to okay the price increase before it could be made.

The newsprint representative inside the OPA is Hugh Phillips, formerly with the International Paper Co., one of the leading members of the Canadian newsprint group.

Phillips says that he has severed all connection with International Paper and receives no remuneration from them. He acknowledged, however, that:

"I am frankly patrial to the industry viewpoint, and of course, I have many old familiar friends throughout the industry."

He also points out that the industry had bad sledding after its founding in the Twenties because of the depression, and was not able to wipe out early construction costs. He emphasizes that Scandinavian newsprint was very harmful to the Canadian industry, which has made no money in the past.

Part of Phillips' job is to advise on whether the OPA should permit an increase in newsprint.

Twice during the year, newsprint has gone up, $4 each time. Simultaneously, President Roosevelt has been declaring for a rollback in prices.

Note: International Paper, while paying no dividends on common stock since 1930, pays its six top officials $412,250 annually, plus additional benefits of $112,500.

"Jesse Jones Apartment."

IF YOU are ever desperately hard up for a place to stay in Washington and are flush with cash, just go to the Statler Hotel and ask for the "Jesse Jones Apartment."

It will cost you $85 for one night, but some business moguls are paying it when they can't find any place else to lay their heads.

The apartment is a penthouse originally designed for Secretary of Commerce Jones, and when it comes to de luxe suites it is really something. It has a grass lawn all its own, high above the streets of Washington, where you can sit out and have a mint julep on a mid-summer evening. It also has a little promenade walk, and rooms decorated in exquisite taste.

It happened that when the Statler was originally planned, Jesse Jones said he would like to have a permanent apartment in the hotel, so they designed this suite especially for him.

Then a rule was adopted that there could be no permanent guests, all had to be transients. This left Secretary Jones out. As a result the apartment is frequently empty, except when some desperate and flush business baron comes to town. Otherwise it is occupied intermittently by Mrs. Statler or members of the Statler board of directors.

Fury In the Air.

U. S. AIR operations out of England are now by far the most extensive and toughest operations of the U. S. Air Forces. Fliers who have seen action in four theaters—China, the Pacific, North Africa, and Europe—say the first three are child's play compared with the current flak-and-fighter opposition of Germans.

The first flight a year ago was made without the loss of a single U. S. plane. The Germans were caught off guard by the daylight raid. But such things don't happen any more. It is no secret that U. S. losses on each raid over the continent are high enough to hurt badly, though not high enough to stop the operations.

War correspondents in Britain declare that U. S. airmen who fly these missions are the greatest heroes of the war. They have to face more fighting fury, and face it with more skill, than any other men in this war—whether fighting on land, sea, or in the air.

The mental strain is so great that when men get themselves keyed for a raid, and then the raid is called off, they react by dropping into a mood of irritation and despair.

Note: Bombing raids over Germany recall the comment of Raymond H. Geist, U. S. consul general in Berlin, when he returned to the U. S. two years ago: "Victory in this war will go to the side which gets out of the cellar first."

Indecisive Brown.

PRENTISS BROWN is having a tough time making up his mind whether to resign as OPA administrator. Several times he has been just on the verge, then backed away.

Inside fact is that when Prentiss gets wind that some people around the White House would like to have him quit, then his back stiffens and he is smitten with an acute case of hold-on-to-office.

Judge Jimmy Byrnes of South Carolina and Judge Fred Vinson of Kentucky don't agree as to whether Brown should stay. Byrnes thinks his forced exit would be a blow to a loyal Democrat and would be resented by Democrats on Capitol Hill. Vinson thinks Prentiss has too hard a time making up his mind not only about his own tenure of office, but about price control, and is too vacillating for the public good.

Paratroop Miracle.

THERE was one thrilling bit of untold history regarding the Allied landing in Sicily which now can be revealed. A division of U. S. parachute troops actually stopped about two Nazi divisions which were dashing to the seacoast to await Allied landing barges.

This occurred the night before the landing barges arrived. Had the paratroopers not succeeded in holding up the Nazis, U. S. troops might have landed literally in blood.

What happened was that the paratroopers, coming down mysteriously at night, not far from the Nazi divisions, fooled the enemy into thinking he was outnumbered. Actually, a paratroop division is far inferior in numbers to a division of ground troops. But the Nazis could not tell in the dark how many Americans there were, got the impression that the sky was packed with paratroopers.

So they decided to camp for the night and get ready for a fight the next morning. But by daylight U. S. landing barges were safely ashore.

ERNIE PYLE — Roving Reporter

Members of General Bradley's Small "Official Family" Carefully Chosen.

SOMEWHERE IN SICILY—(By Wireless)—General Bradley has around him at the front, in addition to his military staff of more than a hundred officers, a little official "family" and it really is like a little family.

It consists of his two young captain aides, his sergeant driver, his corporal orderly and his brigadier general chief of staff whom I'm not permitted to name.

The two aides are Capt. Chester Hansen of Elizabeth, N. J., and Capt. Lewis Bridge of Lodi, Calif. Both are 25, both were graduated from college in 1939, Hansen from Syracuse U., and Bridge from California Aggies. Their nicknames are Chet and Lew and that's what the General calls them.

Captain Bridge has no "s" on the end of his name and he says it burns his father up to be called Bridges since he has an antipathy against Harry Bridges.

Both captains went through Officers' Training School at Fort Benning when General Bradley was commanding there and both came right out of the officers' school into his family. They've been with him now for 16 months and consider themselves the two most fortunate young officers in the American army. They sleep in cots under a tree about 50 yards from the general's truck which also is parked under a tree since the general has an aversion to occupying buildings and usually keeps a command post in tents out in the open.

AROUND headquarters the two aides are on call constantly but for jeep traveling with the general they take alternate days. Both are bright, understanding, likeable fellows who worship at the general's feet and do a good job representing him in the same thoughtful manner he uses.

The general's driver is Sergeant Alex Stout of Port Barre, La., below Baton Rouge. Although he is only 23, he has been in the army six years. He doesn't, however, intend to make it a career. Recently his grandmother died and left him a fertile 275-acre farm and when the war is over he is going back to farm it himself.

Sergeant Stout was married last Christmas day. His wife is waiting back in Louisiana. He has a brother Noah who is a captain in the army in Australia. Sergeant Stout has been driving for General Bradley for two-and-a-half years. He is so good that when Bradley reached North Africa he sent back to the states for him.

Stout takes meticulous pride in the general's jeep. He has it fixed up with sponge rubber cushions, a built-in ration box under the back seat, and keeps it neat as a pin.

General Bradley says having a good driver is important for he relaxes while he's riding and he can't have a driver who annoys him by going too slow or one who keeps him tense by reckless driving. One night last winter the general had a blackout driver who was so cautious and creepy he had to take the wheel himself and drive half the night.

Sergeant Stout is another devoted fan of the general's.

"He does everything for you," the sergeant says. "I go to him with my headaches, go to him for advice, go to him for money. He treats me just like my own father does."

The general's orderly is Corporal Frank Cekada of Calumet, Mich. Frank is the newest one of the general's family, having been with him only since last March.

Frank says a colonel in Oran picked him for the job because he always kept himself looking neat and clean. He was driving a truck before he got this assignment. He had never been an orderly before but soon caught on. Frank's duties are, as he puts it, "to keep the general happy." He cleans the quarters, looks after the luggage while moving, and whenever he can't find Sicilian women to do the general's washing Frank does it himself.

Frank is 24, and before the war was, of all things, a bartender. He says the general treats him like a personal friend and he hopes nothing happens to this job.

* * *

GENERAL BRADLEY lives in an army truck which has been fixed up inside like a tourist trailer. In the front end is a nice wide bed running crosswise of the truck with a blanket with the initials of the U. S. Military Academy. Along one side is a desk with drawers under it. On the other side is a closet and wash basin. A field telephone in a leather case hangs on the end of the desk. There is a big calendar on the wall and each day is marked off with an x. There is a book rack with four or five columns of military textbooks, one called "Our Enemy, Japan" and a French grammar which the general never finds time to study.

On the front wall over the bed are painted the dates of the campaigns in North Africa with the beginning and ending dates and Sicily with the invasion date.

We conjectured on what date the Sicilian campaign would end and oddly enough the general's date was a little further off than mine. There are no pictures in the truck, no gadgets on the tables. The general has not sent home any souvenirs, in fact he has acquired only two for himself. One was a German Luger from Tunisia and the other a lovely Sicilian dagger with the Fascist emblem on the handle. On the wall opposite the table is a big map of this area of Sicily. It probably is the most important piece of equipment in the place.

The general sits there alone at night studying the map for hours, thinking and planning moves for the morrow over this frightful country ahead. There alone before his map many of the most important decisions are made.
